The evening was really over cold for the polar bears, but the kids turned out in force for the hayrides last Friday. It was anything but an anticlimax to play the thirteenth for any one that night. We had a ball group-ups as well as the kids. It took me an hour to thaw just my toes, but then I'm a pansy when it comes to a cold. I noticed that night everyone wore red noses like Rudolf's. We really had a perfect night for the hayrides despite the low temperatures, and all the freshly new fallen snow added to the holiday mood.

Forty-four children went on a hayride that left from Pat Morgan's home on 14 in the afternoon. All the 27 year olds are invited, but please call me before hand so I'll make sure I have enough refreshments on hand. The house is all decorated, and we're rarin' to go.

DON'T FORGET the Holiday Open House next Thursday evening from 8:30-11 p.m. at Jack and Betty Gazdova's home on Old Homestead Court. Betty has all kinds of hors d'oeuvres planned to go with the punch that will be served. See you there.
