The tycoon had suffered all reverses he could take and with very dependent climbing back his car, he said to his chauffeur: "Drive over a cliff. I'm committing suicide."

Opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway in 1959 made Michigan the principal maritime state on the nation's fourth seacoast. Now 80 per cent of the world's merchant fleet can reach Michigan's seaports.

JUNIOR HIGH SPORTS in the Farmington area have taken on added interest this year with the opening of the new East Junior High School, the third in the School District, and a hot rivalry in basketball. The cheerleaders pictured above are from the oldest of the three schools, Farmington Junior High; they are (L to R, kneeling) Marge Braunstein, Penny Newman, Gina Parsons and Sherry Charboneau, and (L to R, standing) Jan Henry, Candy Gearin, Marilyn Schweizer and Sheri Engstrom. O. E. Duckel Junior High has been engaged in rivalry with the Farmington Spartans for some time.

Someone once said that pure metal shines brighter the more it is rubbed. Christmas is like that. Its spirit never tarnishes or grows dull, but rather becomes brighter with each passing year. Barbara and Dale Bowman. The cover in almost Egyptian form, symbolizes the angel Gabriel done in gold and takes form with the help of a very light blue background. And now my Christmas card to all of you is more eloquently expressed by the words of Helen Scheuer Rice, titled "O Thanks."

Carrie and Bob Hartung now in Dallas, Texas, sent a card showing a lonely figure of a shepherd on a hilltop with a few of his flock. The radiance of a white star and its rays of white and pink, the look of the Mother upon the beautiful babe is that of supreme adoration.

FRAN AND RUTH Davenport's card has an olive green background of lovely simplicity, with the lone partridge sitting amidst the tree laden with golden pearls.

FRAN and Nell Devine chose the lone shepherd among a few of his flock viewing the star in snow. Here the magnificence of a great tree, one of the snow-covered of the Lord, takes half the view of the card.

THE MORROWS, Joe and Mary have selected an impressionistic view of a town, covered in snow, where a thick blackened sky comes Santa Claus and his eight tiny reindeer. The contrast of the black and white with patches of green and orange gives a lovely color affect.

ROSE AND LEN Maender's card shows the coach lantern in a blue background surrounded by bows of pine branches, three cherubs among the pine trees with the beamed animals of the infant Jesus, the birds.

NOEL is the only form of writing within the card chosen

Christmas Card Sending A Late Comer in Yule Tradition

Many of today's Christmas traditions began somewhere in the dim past, but the practice of exchanging greeting cards is just a little over a century old. In 1843, William Maw Egley, a "victorian" young English artist, came up with the idea of designing a Christmas card and reproducing it on pieces of pastebored paper to place in envelopes.

His card showed a family Christmas dinner, formal dinner, skating, carols, and other aspects of a celebration resembling the one in Charles Dickens' "The Christmas Carol," published a few years previously. Unfortunately, Egley's friends were not enthusiastic about his idea.

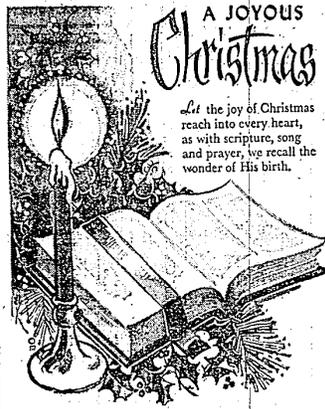

New Year's Apology The "daddy" of all holiday cards was designed and etched in 1842 by J. A. Boerner, a young Londoner, who wanted to apologize to friends for his failure to pay a New Year's Day visit. Mr. Boerner's card made it clear he was tied to his home by depicting him with his coat caught in the locked door-way of his house.

In 1849, Sir Henry Cole, a busy English "missionary" of culture, hit upon the idea of sending out little missives at Christmas. John Calcott Horsford of the Royal Academy, famous for his campaign against nude art, designed the cards and Sir Henry sent out 1000 to his friends.

It wasn't until the early 1860's that cards were issued for general distribution by a large English publishing company. Christmas greetings were induced into the United States by the Marcus Card company of London. They became popular immediately, and in 1874 Louis Prang, a German immigrant, started a Christmas card business at Roxbury, Mass.

Despite its relatively recent start in this country, the custom has caught the fancy of the American public to the extent that it sends billions of Christmas cards every year.

Let the joy of Christmas reach into every heart, as with scripture, song and prayer we recall the wonder of His birth.
