Universalists to Give Play Fri. "For Nought" a monodrama based on the book of Job, will be presented by Stewart Moore at 8:00 p.m. Friday, March 6, at the Universalist-Unitarian Church of Farmington. Moore, former liberal minister and currently in the social work field, said the play explores the questions man asks about the meaning of suffering and pain, and endeavors to go beyond the popular emphasis on the quality of patience in the book of Job. "He will play all the four characters in the play, with his son, David Moore, assisting with sound and lighting. The drama was presented at Wayne State University's Studio Theater in June, and has been performed with critical acclaim in several churches within 13 and 14 Mile roads. This is the first performance in Farmington. Minister Robert M. Eddy said coffee and refreshments would be served after the play. There is no admission charge, but he asked that viewers telephone GR. 4-7273 for reservations, since seating in the auditorium is limited. Universalist Topic Revealed Some religious traditions found mixed into the various books of the Bible will be explored by the Rev. Robert M. Eddy of the Universalist-Unitarian Church of Farmington in his message titled "The Heritage of Israel" at 10 a.m. Sunday, March 8. Mr. Eddy said this would be the first of a series of occasional talks looking into the Bible in the light of the historical research and searching for useful philosophical and psychological insights from religious genius of the past. "The poetry; prophesy and anguish is mixed indiscriminately with ancient superstition and some of the most tragic blasphemies of history," he added. Refreshments were served at the end of the Open House. THE P.T.A. is holding a Square Dance this year as a fund raising drive at Duncello School April 10. The purpose of this year's fund raising drive is to purchase a P.O. garage projector priced at $150. The purchase of this projector will open to the students of Kenbrook School a whole new world of education. They will see as well as hear what they are learning about. VISUAL AIDS make the subject they are studying more real to them. They see shape, and dimension, and color. This projector is capable of projecting anything from a photograph to a picture of a map from the page of a book. VISUAL AIDS have the ability of imparting what is shown on the minds of our children. This, in turn, leads to a clearer understanding of the topic under study, a better appreciation of the subject, and thus, better grades for the students to present to their parents. What is not fully understood is not possessed. -Goethe Respect all such as sing when all alone -Robert Browning

Christian Science Bible Lesson Set The Bible Lesson at Christian Science Churches this Sunday will explore. The question from Psalms (83), "What is man that thou art mindful of him?" Golden Text: "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him" (Genesis 1:27). One of the major themes will be these lines from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The understanding of his spiritual individuality makes man more real, more formidable in truth, and enables him to conquer sin, disease, and death" (p. 317).
