from the point where the center island ends just west of the Grand River Drive-In Theater.

TWO CITIZENS present at the Monday night meeting, Ralph Yoeder of 31661 Lamar Drive and W. Allen Nelson of 23708 Warner Avenue, commented that they felt there was sufficient width in the westbound lanes to provide a normal traffic flow. They were in favor of having the lanes clearly marked so vehicles could have guide lines.

A study on the possibilities of providing off-street parallel parking is continuing while the City waits for action from the State Highway Department on getting the Grand River traffic lanes in the area painted.

Mrs. Hilda G. Weaver of 23903 Farmington Road in Farmington died about 4 p.m. Tuesday, August 4, after a brief illness. She was the widow of Dr. Frank Weaver who died in 1951 and had been a prominent Farmington dentist for many years.

Surviving are a son, Robert Weaver of Traverse City, Michigan, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Sechler of Farmington. Also surviving are seven grandchildren.

City & County

He further stated in his report that since the City has established a policy of not levying any special assessments on improvements for major highways, the cost of the City's share would have to be borne by the City at large with the possibility that its share could be borne by gas and weight funds, if the City has not exceeded their limit based on revenues received during the past three years.

The possibility was mentioned by Dinan that a capital improvement reserve could be set up by the City to pay for their share of the road improvement. The project is necessary, it was reported, because the widening of Farmington Road south of Eight Mile by Wayne County would extenuate the bottle neck between Eight and Nine Mile and throw a tremendous load of traffic in this area.

Bid Accepted For Fire Hose

The Farmington City Council awarded the bid for the purchase of 500 feet of 2½-inch fire hose to Fire Trucks, Inc., at their regular meeting Monday night, August 3.

The successful bidder on the fire hose was the lowest among seven who submitted bids to the City, ranging in price from $600 to $1,000. The bids were received Friday, July 31, at 10 a.m.
