What Type of Broadloom Do You Need? Wool! Nylon! Acrylic!

Bigelow has made "Town and Country" broadloom in your choice of three fibers so one would be perfect for your needs. All three are deeply sculptured patterns to hide wear and foot prints . . . and soil, too. Choice of 12 to 15 foot widths. Carpeting—Upper Level

100% Nylon "Sherbrook"

The most durable because it's made of one continuous filament of DuPont nylon that can't pull apart. Its silky smooth fibers shed soil, can't pull or fuzz. Perfect for large families and heavy traffic rooms.

Green, Gold, Beige, Blue, Chinese Red

100% Acrylic "Seabright"

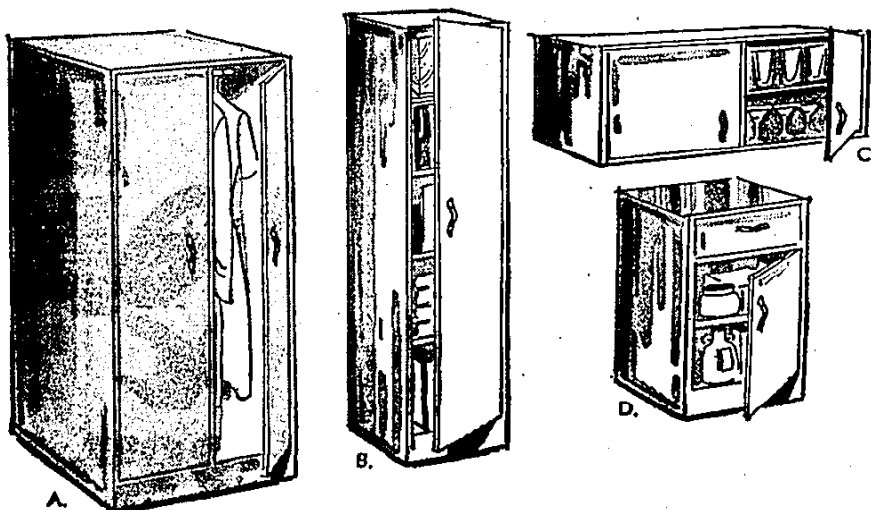

Perfect for light colors because Acrylic fiber absorbs almost no moisture, resists stains and soil; light colors stay light, longer. The resilient pile lets the pattern snap back in rooms of movable furniture.

Avocado, Gold, Blue, Martini, Sandalwood

100% Wool "Southampton"

When in doubt, use wool. It's luxurious by nature and naturally soft and warm. Features extraordinary depth of color. Wears where others fail, looks new and exciting all the while. Treated to be permanently moth-proof.

Gold, Green, Sandalwood, Sand, Honey, Ginger
