First Baptist Church of Plymouth Is 135

Last Sunday the First Baptist Church of Plymouth observed the 135th anniversary of its founding. This is one of the oldest churches in the area.

Today the congregation, which is housed in the first building constructed in 1820, numbers 250. On March 6, 1930 a total of 15 persons gathered to organize a Baptist Society.

On June 9, 1936 the Society was officially recognized as a church.

The Plymouth church has just purchased four and a half acres on North Territorial Rd. and Rev. Donald E. Williams, pastor of First Baptist, said that construction on a new building will begin "probably within the next three years."

Dr. Benjamin Browne, president of Judson College in Elgin, Illinois, spoke at the 11 a.m. service Sunday. Dr. Browne is a former editor in chief of the American Baptist Publications and former president of the American Baptist Convention.

A dinner for the church family followed the service. Mrs. Dale Arnold and Mrs. Ken Thorpe were co-chairmen of the dinner.

Speaker at the dinner was Dr. A. L. Farrell, executive secretary of the Michigan Baptist Convention. He brought greetings to the Plymouth congregation from the Michigan Convention.

Organized as the Plymouth Village Baptist Society in 1846, the congregation held its first meeting in Plymouth Village in the school house on Feb. 14, 1849.

In Feb. 1858 the congregation constructed its own building which is still in use on Mill St. Renovations were made to the structure in 1900 and the education unit was constructed in 1948.

Enlargements were made to the sanctuary and the educational unit in 1951.

The oldest living member of the congregation is Mrs. Helen Shackleton of Main St., Plymouth.

Williams, pastor of First Baptist, said that construction on a new building will begin "probably within the next three years."
