Livonian To Compete in Rodeo

Jeffrey M. Baker, 17, of 17451 Rexwood, Livonia, one of the 51 finalists in the 14th annual National Teen Age Safe Driving Rodeo will be leaving for Washington, D.C. next week to compete for top honors in the nationally known safe driving competition for teen-agers.

The youngsters coming to the nation's capital have earned the chance to make the trip to the National Finals because of their skill in preliminary city and state rodeos held from coast to coast.

The National Teen Age Safe Driving Rodeo is sponsored by the U.S. Jaycees in cooperation with the Lincoln, Mercury Division of the Ford Motor Company.

The Rodeo competition is open to any teen-ager who has not reached his 20th birthday by the last day of the National Finals; a licensed motor vehicle driver and, who has not had a moving traffic violation for 6 months preceding the national event.

The state finalists will be competing for $4500 in college scholarships. The winners will be announced at the Awards Banquet at the Statler Hilton hotel Aug. 5.

Ladywood Girl Wins First Prize in State

In the Americanism Essay contest sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Michigan, Catherine Begnoche, a senior at Ladywood High School was awarded first prize at the State Convention in Lansing.

Her essay will now be sent to be judged at the national convention at Portland, Ore. She has also been first place winner in the unit and district level.

Meredith Hartt, a ninth grade student at Northville Jr. High was also a first place winner in the Jr. division, on the district level.

First place winners in the Myron H. Beals Unit #32 of the American Legion, Dept. of Michigan, were Catherine Begnoche, Sheila O'Brien, and Janice R. Kallnowski, all students at Ladywood High School.

The title of this year's essay was "America's Future."

Livonia Scouts End Session At Philmont

A greater awareness of the outdoors and new scouting skills were learned by the group of Explorers and older Boy Scouts from the Livonia area Council, Boy Scouts of America, during a 12-day expedition at the Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico.

The 15 boys and one leader returned to headquarters of the 137,000-acre national Scout camp and prepared for their trip home with arrival on July 25.

Among the activities in which the group participated during the 12 days on the trail were gold mining, fly fishing and fishing, western lore, geology, horseback riding, mosquito shooting, archery, conservation projects, astronomy and trail camping.

One of the most outstanding highlights of the expedition, according to the boys, was the bears going through the middle of camp and through the tents.

Individual achievements were recognized at the final Western campfire. These included the arrowhead patches which are given only to those Scouts who complete the 12-day trek.
