38A—Lakefront Property

EXPERIENCED BUYERS

Realize that the time to buy . . . To get the most for their money is the time known as the off-season for the product concerned. This is especially true of lake and recreational properties! Waterfront lots have risen significantly in price each spring for the past three or four years. According to the "people who are supposed to know" this type property will rise in price more than any other during the next four or five years. Therefore, if you are one of the millions who dream about a lake cottage, or that retirement site on a nice clean lake, the time to do something about it is right now!
