Cool Shade For Torrid Homeowners

Most warm homeowners like to head for the backyard in search of the cool shade during summer months. This year many will be enjoying an outdoor quarry tiled terrace.

Quarry tile or ceramic mosaic tile is ideal for terraces because they are among the most durable materials nature has given mankind.

They're waterproof, stain-proof and will dry clean without a minute after a hose.

Highland Bent Produced in Northwest Area

One of the most widely used Colonial bentgrasses is Highland, carefully produced in a single section of Oregon.

Special pains are taken to see that the seed sent East is free of harmful weeds or contaminants.

In cool, moist locations bentgrass grows luxuriantly. Soils there often contain volunteer bentgrass, started years ago when pedigree seed was not available.

Some of this bent grass is of the mat-forming, creeping type, which makes a contrasting colony in bluegrass-fine fescue lawns.

Tests by the Lawn Institute suggest that Highland is not much this sort of threat. Even where constantly watered, it has not aggressively invaded bluegrass.

Use Shortening Can For Paint Storage

Don't discard those empty coffee and shortening cans. They make ideal trinket cans for children's rooms when painted with bright, shiny enamel.

They're also handy paint buckets. Clean can thoroughly before using or painting.

Follow These Tips When Buying Heater

Stepping into a steaming bath is refreshing. But when you buy an undersized, economy model water heater and it goes to pieces, you end up in another kind of hot water.

Every homeowner should consider five factors before buying a water heater.

First, consider capacity. The moderate water heater, pushed beyond capacity, wears out rapidly. Inside surfaces corrode because they are over-exposed to dissolved oxygen.

To determine the proper capacity water heater for your home, consider the number of bathrooms, water-using appliances, and people. Then consult a reliable plumbing contractor. He will be able to calculate the proper water heater to fill your needs.

Next, consider using two water heaters. It is sometimes advisable to install an water heater to serve bathrooms at one end of the house and another to serve the kitchen-utility-laundry room on the other end.

For safety's sake, make sure the heater you purchase has temperature and pressure relief valves. These valves automatically reduce both pressure and temperature to keep them from exceeding safe limits.

Care of the water heater is a must. For example, draining a few quarts of water from the tank periodically removes sedimenting sediment. This will help the heater work better, last longer.

Remember, too, that the flame should be whiteish blue. Any other color indicates the need for adjustment.

A noisy flame also needs adjustment. And soot in the burner compartment indicates low efficiency and the need for professional help.

Finally, have the water heater serviced by a competent plumbing contractor who will start it properly and keep it that way.

No dining room in the house? Try paneling the ceiling and walls of the eating oil to set it apart from the rest of the living room. Western hemlock is warm but sophisticated, beams well with the walnut, mahogany, and teak favored for dining sets.

Little Red Barn For Tools, Play In Back Yard

A little red barn for your back yard, where it can be a delightful playhouse for children or a handy storage building for garden tools and supplies, can be built by the amateur craftsman.

A door at each end of this well-dressed barn adds to its usefulness. Good appearance and durability are assured by use of Masonite X-nutney Panel-groove siding, which is dent resistant and easy to paint. Line the interior with heavy-duty Peg-Board for hanging equipment.

Complete details for building and decorating this handsome addition to your yard may be obtained by sending a postcard to the Home Service Bureau, Box B, Chicago, Ill. 60690, requesting AE-109.
