THE FIRST PERMANENT sign to use the new Bank of the Commonwealth symbol was raised into position recently at the bank's new Warken-Evergreen office. The tendors-quare, in-terior-lighted plexiglass sign is framed in stainless steel and weighs more than ball a ton. The signs are being installed at the bank's three newest offices as part of a new program. The new symbol-a-blod block Cs eviltim a larger block B-was designed to reflect strength and newness of thought in banking. From left, V. James Ford, vice president in charge of the retail banking division] Alphonse S. Pryiomski, Warren-Evergreen office manager, and Lee E. Morrison, assistant vice president for branch planning and properties, watch as the sign is raised.
