

CORRESPONDENCE

Base Line

Mrs. Harry Rear is entertaining a number of relatives from Canada for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Carpenter and sister, Emma, from Island Lake visited Mrs. John Greer and family Thursday.

Mr. Sooten of Detroit was a caller at Mrs. Greer's Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Greer have returned from their wedding trip and are now staying at the former's home for a couple of weeks, after which they will be at home to their friends just north of Powers station.

Joe French is very sick now, not being able to sit up any of the time.

W. Bryan of Saginaw called on his brother, Homer, Monday.

E. J. Simmons has purchased a five passenger Ford auto.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Smith were in Northville Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Simmons and son, Harry, Miss J. M. Simmons of Northville and Mrs. W. G. Johnson of Waterford were callers at Jesse Chilson's in Livonia Sunday.

Northville..

Mrs. L. L. Brooks and Mrs. Ed. Thompson returned home Sunday from a visit with their sister in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hutten were visitors in town Sunday.

A good job of trimming shade trees was done in Northville Monday and Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Pepper and son, Wyland, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Woodmance were fishing at Straits Lake Saturday.

Geo. Johnston and family have moved into the Gorton house on Cady street recently purchased by his father.

The annual picnic of the Northville Woman's club was held at Mrs. E. H. Lapham's Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Iva Smitherman of this place and Albert Trost of Detroit were married at the home of the bride's parents June 18.

Julius Northrop, Northville's oldest citizen, passed away at his home on Cady street Monday morning. He was nearly 96 years of age and is survived by his wife, who is in very poor health. The funeral was held Wednesday.

Mrs. Louise Ball arrived here this week from Arizona for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Ida E. Joslin.

Miss Alice Smith, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. J. Henry Smith of Detroit, formerly residents of this place, graduated with high honors from Smith college in Massachusetts last week. Miss Smith is a graduate of the Northville high school.

Redford

Arthur Cabbell has begun a house on Philbrick avenue.

A fine little daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Churches at Redford Monday.

The frames of several new houses have been put up in Redford the past week and more are to follow. The latest count places the number of new buildings under construction in Redford at 26. There would be more if help were not so scarce. As many more are going up before fall than are already planned with a fine prospect for double the number.

George W. King of the Old National bank of Detroit has purchased lot 92 on the Oak Grove subdivision and will build a fine home next summer. The sale was made by Mr. Knowles direct who also sold lots 71 and 72 to Mr.

Liscum, a recent arrival in the village. Mr. Liscum will also build a house soon.

There is a demand for more carpenters in Redford and several good men could find steady employment at once.

Fred DeNo found that the climate of northern Michigan did not agree with him in his condition and so cut his trip short and returned, reaching home Tuesday.

Ed. J. Minnock of Redford has been appointed attorney for the Michigan Labor Commission and has taken a larger suite of offices in the Buhl block in Detroit, moving from No. 35 to Nos. 32 and 33.

Although this is an important position Mr. Minnock informs the Record that it will not interfere in anyway with his general law practice.

His many friends throughout this section will be pleased to know of this acknowledgement of Mr. Minnock's abilities and will extend congratulations to him accordingly.

Summer at Bay View

The seasonable Bay View announcements are out and will interest the thousands who are in search of an ideal vacation place. All winter Bay View has barely a dozen families, but in July and August its population swells to 5,000, and then the young people in their gay costumes, the teachers and the delightful people from all over the land through this summer city, amid the groves on Traverse bay. More than 10,000 go there annually.

The magnet which draws the people is the Assembly and Summer University, which this year opens on July 5, continuing to August 14. These five weeks are crowded with recreative pleasures and advantages of the finest order. A feature of the assembly is a series of four great public conferences on supreme issues which are discussed by distinguished leaders.

The general daily programs are filled with famous people, among the names this year being Wm. J. Burns, the great detective; Mue. Schuman-Heink and Helen Keller. The university's fame extends far and last season drew students from 14 states. This year a new school is added in Library work, conducted by the state of Michigan. Those who desire to know more about this summer plate will find it in the Bulletin, from which above facts are drawn, J. M. Hall, Bay View, Mich., will send it.

HARD TO FIND MORAL HERE

Warden's Little Act of Dishonesty Saved His Life Through Discovery He Made.

A Warsaw bookkeeper named Schneider was awaiting his trial, being charged with fraud. As his health was bad his family sent him many little delicacies unknown to the prison fare, delicacies which, doubtless, his custodian shared. One day, amongst other things, a huge loaf cake appeared. The warden's children were fond of cake, so was his wife. They therefore determined to annex half the cake for their own consumption. Their establishment was great when, upon applying a knife to the dainty, it stuck below the icing and refused to budge.

"It must be baked to a cinder," said Mrs. Warden.

But her husband, suspecting that something worse than careless baking was responsible for the cake's hardness, cut round the sides, and was rewarded by finding a revolver and seven cartridges buried in the paste.

When arraigned before the authorities, Schneider confessed that he had intended to shoot his jailers and escape from limbo before his trial.

"After all," said the warden, pensively, when relating the episode, "honesty is not always the best policy. If my wife had not cut out that cake I should have been a dead man by now, for I sleep hard."

DEPICTS A PERFECT WOMAN

Doubtful, However, If Many Measure Up to Proportions Prescribed by Writer.

A perfectly proportioned woman should average 5 feet 5 inches to 5 feet 7 inches in height, and she should weigh from 125 to 140 pounds, according to height. A plumb line dropped from a point marked by the tip of her nose should meet at a point one inch in front of her great toe. Her shoulders and hips should strike a straight line drawn up and down. Her waist should taper gradually to a size on a line drawn from the outer third of the collarbones to the hips. Her bust should measure from 28 to 36 inches, her hips from 6 to 10 inches more than this, and her waist from 24 inches to 28 inches. Her neck and thigh should be of about the same circumference. The upper arm and calf of the leg should measure the same. The length of her legs should be half as long as her height. She should measure from her waist to her feet about a foot more than from her waist to the crown of her head. Around the neck she should measure from 12 to 14 inches. Her head should be erect and on a line with the central plane of her body, and her feet should be of a size and shape to conform with her hands—that is the shoe will be a trifle larger than one-half the size of the glove she wears. Thus, if a girl wears a 6 glove she should wear a 3½ or 4 size shoe.—Exchange.

HAD RIGHT TO BE JUBILANT

Walter's Little Lapse From Duty Really Excusable When He Stated the Reason.

Stuart C. Leake, the railroad man, dropped into a cafe in Philadelphia one day for lunch, and signified by voice and gesture that he was in a terrific hurry to be served. A waiter named Reno, whom Leake knew, paid no attention to the guest, but consumed at least five minutes dancing in a demented manner around a stock ticker in the corner.

"Why on earth didn't you come here to this table when I called you?" asked Leake.

"I was detained by a little private business," said the waiter mysteriously.

"But I insist on knowing," Leake came back at him. "I don't see how a waiter can hold his job and behave the way you do. If you don't step sharp now, you'll get no tip."

This seemed to bring the waiter to his senses.

"Well, Mr. Leake," he said, with great humility, "I was celebrating a little. I just saw by the stock ticker that I had made a thousand dollars on the short side of the market. What'll you have, sir?"—Popular Magazine.

PROVIDENT DARY.

"The darkey," says a southern congressman, "although proverbially improvident, sometimes has his weather eye open."

"In Mobile, one day, I gave a quarter to a colored youth, who had done me some trifling service. 'Excuse me, boss,' said the negro; 'you knows I don't want no pay fo' what I doo fo' yo'. Yo' jes' gimme dat ole suit o' clothes yo' has on.'"

GIVEAWAY.

Mistress—Oh, and Eliza—that gentleman that called this afternoon—was it about my charities?

Eliza—No, m'm. From that second-and-dealer's where you sent those old clothes of master's, to say will you fetch 'em away or shall they burn 'em, 'cause they aren't doing anything in patchwork quilts—London Opinion.

HARD-WORKING FAN.

"Spudkin is a rather inconsistent fellow. He'll leave a card on his desk saying, 'This is my busy day,' and go right out to a baseball game."

"Oh, well, if you could see him roaring on the bleachers you would think it was his busy day."

HIS KIND.

"This umbrella man wants a bath suited to his condition. What would you recommend?"

"A shower bath."

CURIOS.

"People seem perfectly crazy about the net fishing on the pier."

"Strange, when it is such a seine proceeding."

ANCIENT CUSTOMS IN MALTA

Many Things Done in the Manner in Vogue Hundreds of Years Ago.

In Malta the customs of a hundred years ago are still in vogue. Take, for instance, their method of harvesting. Instead of cutting the wheat as in this country, the harvesters kneel down to their task and taking hold of the wheat pull it up by the roots, so that there is never seen in Malta a field of stubble.

The wheat is then taken to a corner of the field where there is a smooth circular patch of stones, usually about twenty feet radius, is spread over it to a depth of eighteen inches or so, and trampled on by oxen, a small boy usually leading them by a rope. When the process of thrashing is completed the straw is forked away and the grain swept up ready for the mill.

Another curious custom is their way of watering the roads. The water cart consists of a light kind of vehicle (dubbed by the military a five-barrel gate), which consists of nothing more or less than a pair of shafts with about eight batons lashed across them, and a couple of diagonal crossbars to strengthen the whole.

On the cart is lashed a fifty-gallon barrel, and a length of canvas hose about a yard long is connected to it, terminating in a sprinkler. The cart is always attended by two men, one leading the horse and the other taking hold of a couple of yards of rope, the end of which is fastened to the sprinkler end of the hose. As the cart goes along, so he follows, and keeps the sprinkler swinging from side to side.—Newark News.

DIFFERENT NOW

"You didn't used to object to your husband playing poker?"

"No; but that was before I learned to play bridge. It is a lovely game, but I cannot afford to play it unless he stops playing poker."

COLD JOKE

The water has spoiled all the biscuits, half of which are nothing but a big lump of mildew, from which, however, we manage to pick out a few fragments which may yet prove eatable. The oatmeal has suffered less, but is perfectly green with age. The sugar has disappeared; the chocolate is also green and tastes of soap. However, we have found food, though not as good as we had expected, and we hope to be able to use the best of the biscuits, assuring each other that, mildew cannot be poisonous. Treason even goes so far as to declare it must be wholesome, being after all a sort of "greenstuff."—From "Lost in the Arctic," by Bynar Mikkelson.

VARIETY.

"What a relief it is to get into the country!"

"Yes," replied Farmer Cornotossel. "Folks is allus wantin' a change. I feel like gettin' to town sometimes an' bein' chased by an automobile instead of a bull."

ITS STATUS.

"What's become of the Ananias club?"

"It's lying low."

"But still lying?"

PARADOX.

"I'd like to give you some beauty wrinkles."

"I didn't know there were such things."

PROVIDING.

He—Don't you think the plain truth in a photograph is best?

She—Not if the truth is too plain.

THE RIVALS.

"What will the horse say now to the cry that the auto is king?"

"I think his say is likely to be neigh, neigh."

TRAINING FOR OFFICE.

"How did your boy, Henry, come out at college?"

"Why, I thought everybody in the village knew. He was graduated at the head of his political economy class."

"Has he gone to work yet?"

"Not yet. I'm making him take a two years' business course at the commercial school here. After he gets through with that the Civic club is going to run him for mayor."—St. Louis Republic.

PERFECT ANAGRAM.

It will be recalled that when Christ was brought before Pilate, the Roman governor (according to St. John's version of the story) asked him, "What is truth?"

In the Latin text of the Vulgate the question runs, "Quid est veritas?" Now, the answer is found in the question itself, without adding or subtracting a single letter. "Est vir qui adest." The rearrangement gives up: "It is the man who stands before you."—Youth's Companion.
