A group of volunteers at North Congregational Church, Northwestern Highway, under the leadership of Mrs. Ralph H. Read, has established a very comprehensive library for the use of its staff and congregation.

With a nucleus of about twenty books brought from old North Woodward Congregational Church in Detroit, the library now has a collection of over 600 volumes ranging from picture and science books for elementary use by juveniles, through books for young adults, teaching aids in religious education.

ation, works on family living, Bible studies of other religions, and books used by the pastors in their calls on shut-ins and members who are ill or have had experiences in which they need comfort or counseling.

In addition, there are works of adult fiction and biographies and reference books on religions which have wide use. Most of these books are available for loan and the congregation is encouraged to borrow them.

To set up this organization Mrs. Read enlisted the help of six professional librarian members of the church. They, in turn, trained others in library techniques. As a result a library has been formed which membership changes from time to time so that many

To Hold Two Community Thanksgiving Services Here

Two community Thanksgiving services will be held for Farmington residents again this year. Sponsored by the Farmington Ministers Association, both services will be held on Thanksgiving eve, Wednesday, November 24, at 8 p.m.

Services for those in or near the City will be held at the Salem United Church of Christ, Oakland Street at Grand River, with the Reverend Robert Zoeller of the Lutheran Church of the Incarnation to deliver the sermon. The Reverend Carl Schultz is the host pastor at Salem United Church.

For residents living farther north in the Township, services will be held at the Trinity Episcopal Church, 26880 LaMueira, north of Eleven Mile Road. The Reverend Frank Cozadd of the Orchard Methodist Church will give the Thanksgiving message, with the Reverend Joseph Pelham as host pastor.

This is a real opportunity to express our unity in the giving of thanks for all the benefits that have come our way," said the Reverend William Holmes, chairman of the Ministers Association.

Reverend Holmes emphasized that people of all denominations are invited to attend either of the two services.

This annual service is distinctive for its concluding testimony period when any Christian Scientist in the congregation may rise and openly express his individual thanks to God for blessings received.

A hymn and reading of the President's national Thanksgiving Day Proclamation will open the service, followed by Scriptural selections, prayer, and a lesson - Sermon on "THANKSGIVING" taken from the Bible and from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (the Christian Science textbook, by Mary Baker Eddy).

This year's Thanksgiving readings include Jesus' well-known injunction, as recorded by Matthew: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you" - and these lines from Science and Health: "God is not moved by the breath of praise to do more than He has already done, nor can the infinite do less than bestow all good, since He is unchanging wisdom and Love."

Community Ch. To Host Special Musical Team

A team of musical students from The Grand Rapids School of the Bible and Music will present a service on Sunday Evening, November 21, at 7 p.m. at the Southfield Community Church, 21122 Indian (between Beech and Inkster, North of Eight Mile).

Although one of the newer schools in the State in the field of Christian Education, the Grand Rapids School of the Bible and Music is doing an excellent work in preparing young people for the preaching ministry, the musical ministry, and the ministry of Christian Education, as well as the missionary ministry abroad.

A non-denominational school, it draws students from non-denominational churches and a cross section of denominational churches.

The team will consist of vocal and instrumental musicians and a speaker, all students at the college. The service is one in a series of special events planned for the Sunday evening services of the Southfield Community Church.
