Kendallarks Belletones Featured In Performance

The Kendallarks will feature the Belletone Quartette, Alberta Sutton, Mary Martin, Margaret Marlowe and Marian Spencer, Friday night, December 10, when they present the entertainment for the Vivians Club of the Farmington Elks at their new lodge, which was the former Farmington Municipal Building on Grand River.

The chorus will be under the direction of Mr. George Assemany. Performing in addition to the Belletones, during the variety part of the program, will be a trio, Sue McCallum, Margaret Marlowe and Marian Spencer, who will sing two Christmas songs; soloists, Grace Coffman, Betty O'Connor and Eleanor Catherman; the girls from the Roaring Twenties; and the popular Hootin' Anlies.

The Kendallarks are also looking forward to their annual Christmas party which will be held this year at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee O'Connor on Friday evening, December 17.

THE BELLETONE Quartette of the Kendallarks, (L to R) Alberta Sutton, Mary Martin, Margaret Marlowe and Marian Spencer, are all decked out to entertain the Vivians Club of the Farmington Elks.

The Belletones are only one of several ensembles within the Kendallarks group who perform for various social functions in the community.

Local Coed In Children's WSU Play

Barbara Hart, a senior speech major at Wayne State University, has been cast in "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp," this year's production of the WSU Children's Theatre which next month will begin its 25th annual tour of Southeastern Michigan.

The children's classic is currently playing at WSU's Bonstelle Theatre for three Saturdays, through December 18.

Miss Hart, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Hart, 23919 Grace St., Farmington, is doubling as the Princess Adora and as Kalissa. A senior speech major, Miss Hart is appearing in her first WSU production. She is president of the Panhellenic Council and Alpha Delta Pi, and was recently named WSU's outstanding undergraduate by the AAUW.
