

Stone Creek Chatter

With the last of the turkey and Christmas presents already forgotten in favor of old dolls and teddy bears, our house is finally getting back to normal. With fourteen people added to our broad of four we celebrated a joyous Christmas indeed. Once a year the children are angels receiving attention from doting grandparents and aunts and uncles.

It is a good time for families to get together—the sweetness of carols, the aroma of home made goods, the glitter and scent of the tall pine tree a nostalgic event for all.

Several Stone Creekers were together with relatives over the Christmas holiday—Jim and Karen Kelly with their boys and dog Gidget drove up to Niles for turkey dinner at Grandma and Grandpa Moon-eyhams. The Pennys and Davensports both of Creekside spent their time in Saginaw with their respective families. The Georges of Barfield had guests for dinner as did the Eisenmanns on Brookplace who enjoyed the company of Bob's parents for a week.

BESIDES the family get-togethers quite a few pre-Christmas parties were given. The largest was had by Dick and Sue Dettling of Barfield who really had a houseful. Some familiar names would be Maurice and Jeanette Ivans, John and Cathy Borbi, Connie and Milt George, the Stasaks and the Kays all from Barfield.

Christmas Day saw several groups visiting each other. Jim and Doreen Lichtman of Brookplace Ct had a party including out of town guests Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gietler, Dr. and Mrs. Rosenbaum from Ann Arbor. The Lichtmans have only recently moved in and are former apartment dwellers from Detroit. They have one little girl Laurie 2 1/2. Irv is a Public Accountant with Peat Marwick and Mitchell and in his spare time enjoys golf.

Another recent resident is Bob Martin. He and his wife Loral live on So. Duncan. Bob works at Acme Quality Paint in the finish shop department. Loral is employed as a secretary by Parkins Rogers and Associates. Their favorite sport is bowling which is not surprising since they first met while bowling.

IT SEEMS THAT Ethel Knopik can't seem to stay away from hospitals. She started in nursing at the tender age of nineteen in the old Eugene Keys hospital. Her last job started Dec. 1 at William Beaumont Hospital, but she just ended up a pneumonia patient. It was then daughter Penny's turn to take nursing duty at home till mom got better.

Quite a bit of sickness flew around the area after Christmas. Most of the mothers were worried about pneumonia poisoning but it turned out to be the flu — sure shook their confidence in their cooking ability though. My better half broke down Monday morning, the Eisenmanns had the bug go through them right after Christmas and Vicki and Wendy Sechrist gave in to the bug also.

After all the New Year merrymaking it's a wonder this column is being written. Those on hand to hail in 1966 at the Kelly residence on Brookplace were Ceri and Peg Dando, Doris and Rick Petrucci, Bill and Arlene Pearson, Bob and Lou Eisenmann and other friends who joined in the melee. Shortly after one a.m. the party moved to the Eisenmanns' room and in popped the Lillies also of Brookplace. We all had a good time especially playing a game called Abdo the Magician.

DOWN ON SOUTH Duncan the Galarinos had a crowd to-talling approximately fifty.

The Rubis had nine over-the-weekend guests and I have sad news from Elsa. Sad for us that is. The Rubis will be moving to Puerto Rico in February and we sure will miss them. For them it is an anticipated move. They were supposed to have gone there last year but instead Pedro was transferred here. We all wish them the best of luck and hope our new neighbors are as nice as they have been.
