

Mayfair Club Celebrates The New Year

It was a swingin' party at Mayfair. Fourteen reserved tables of bridge players assembled early on New Year's Eve for a Master Point game, and for a Master Point game, and to eat, drink and be merry together as 1965 ended.

Winners were: Tom and Val O'Rourke, The R. G. Wagner's, Al and Marian Collins, Marty and Barbara Madvin, Iain and Alice Scott, Bill and Dorothy Evans, Jack Wright and Bette Weldon, Bill and Margaret Aho, Cliff and Edith Younger, and Carl Johnson and Barb Elbe.

Friday night, January 7, is the first regular master point night for 1966. Games resume as usual on Tuesdays at 7:45 and Fridays at 8. Game address is 32905 Northwestern Hwy., at 14 Mile Road. A continuous series programs begins this week for both games. Trophies will be awarded regularly for the best 4 out of 6 games. Further information may be obtained by calling MA. 6-2109.

EVEN THOUGH SANTA CLAUS is back at the north pole by now and won't be around again until another 355 days have passed, kids in Briar Hill Subdivision have many fond memories of his recent visit. The annual subdivision Christmas party and parade was climaxed as Santa talked to youngsters while his "elves," Gail Ettig, Kathy Helmers, Diane O'Neill and Denise Taggart, helped pass out candy.

share the same pre-Christmas birthday; Eric was six; Greg was four, and they invited a number of young friends from the subdivision over for supper. Both Riebe boys have December birthdays also. On his twelfth, David invited Dicky Brown, Bobby Weldon, and Tommy Frankini over for dinner. On his second birthday, Jon was content to celebrate with just his family. Joining the family for Christmas Day were Norma's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Gleason Sr. and her brother James Jr. with his wife and three children. Linda Braun arrived home from Western University right on her eighteenth birthday. The Brauns' Christmas was made much happier by the news that Gary had returned to Hawaii to be stationed there after a lengthy tour of duty as a flier in Viet Nam.

There is so much bustle and bustle going on around O. H. at this time of year that it is pretty hard to tie anyone down long enough to extract some news. However, a few items have been gleaned here and there, so we present them with our own holiday wishes to everyone for a much more peaceful, happy year ahead.

The Borst family started their festivities early when the family traveled to Grand Rapids to share in Phyl's brother's twenty-fifth wedding anniversary celebration about a week before Christmas. They brought Phyl's mother, Mrs. John Kruger of that city, back with them to spend the holidays. Chuck, Janey, and little Bobby joined them from Chicago for Christmas day, and Santa was so overly generous to them that they had to hire a trailer to transport his largesse back to Chicago. Marilyn's roommate at college, Miss Lynne Koster of Reed City, arrived in time to spend the New Year weekend. ERIC AND GREG Checketts

Janice Craig had some of her cousins over for cake and ice cream on her birthday. Grandpa and Grandma came to dinner on the day before. Joe's family, fifteen in number, joined the Craigs for dinner on Christmas eve, and Yvonne's, numbering eighteen, had dinner with them on Sunday after Christmas. With all her experience as subdivision social chairman, Yvonne breezed through this much entertaining with unruffled feathers. THIRTY-FIVE members of Oloffe's family made the rafters ring over at Babington's on Christmas eve. Lynn had a birthday, her eleventh, the day after Christmas, and settled for one friend over to spend the night. Kay and Harry Steele have a wedding anniversary just a few days before the holiday. They enjoyed a festive dinner at The Canopy in Brighton. Suzy Ziegen had her eighth birthday just as she was recovering from a painful ear infection, so she spent it quietly but enjoyably with her family. Dick and Ann Frankini celebrated their wedding anniversary by staying home. It was a nice change of pace as they had been partying every evening since Christmas. ONE OF THE HURDS' holiday surprises was a letter from a service man in Viet Nam who reported that their German shepherd, Johann, is now his sentry partner. Man and dog trained together in Texas, went from there to Minnesota, and finally Viet Nam. It was an unexpected thrill for them to hear about the exciting adventures of their former pet, especially since he was so highly praised. The Brockhaus family put through a call to the Higgins family in Mexico City at Christmas time and learned first hand about the new little seniorita who arrived in time to be a part of the joyous holiday activities. She weighed over eight pounds, and turned out to be a brunet as that seemed more fitting for her place of birth. It has been requested that the early risers put on their porchlights for the high school bus catchers. It is extremely dark as they wend their way at 6:45 a.m. and this makes it difficult for drivers to see and avoid them. A little light on the subject would make quite a difference and earn their grateful thanks, also that of their parents. Betty Gazdova is the new square dance chairman, and the next dance will be held on January 8. New dancers will be welcome, but please call Betty in advance as this can help a great deal with the planning. Her number is GR. 4-4753.
