New at the Library

Tuesday morning story hour will hold its last session at the library on March 15. It will commence again next fall when four year olds will be invited to attend once again.

A recent purchase made by the library is a Bresser's Cross-Index Directory for South Oakland County for 1965-1966. It contains a street address and telephone exchange section, and will be placed in the reference section of the library.

Variety is the keynote for new books being placed on the shelves. One of these is The Schweitzer Album by Erica Anderson, a portrait in words and pictures with additional text by Albert Schweitzer.

To keep up with this modern world there is an Illustrated Space Encyclopedia edited by Erik Bergaut. For young boys and their fathers, there is a Boy's Book of Model Railroading by Raymond Yates complete with pictures, text and diagrams.

An unusual and enlightening book is The Great American Forest by Rutherford Platt which contains the story of trees, their romantic and scientific aspects for millions of years.

Book of Great Jungles by Ivan Sanderson takes you on an unforgettable journey through the world's jungles in a marvelous illustrated book.

For home decorators there is Elegant Decorating on a Limited Budget by Janet Reist which explains how to make up in flair for what you lack in funds. Along this same line, there is the book My Favorite Things by Dorothy Rodgers, wife of the composer, Richard Rodgers. It is a book about homes, decorating them and entertaining in them. About food and how to serve it. About being a hostess, about people, and perhaps above all about the satisfactions of being a woman.

In the front lounge there is a large variety of magazines also available for distribution on a basis of six per yard for one week.
