Landscaper Can Provide Trees For Every Setting

Because of their many sizes and forms and growing habits, trees offer many opportunities for the landscaper. Trees can become a background for the home garden. Large trees can be used to frame a home — especially when they are placed at corner positions. Trees are used to provide shade — while others are used as screening, to create a barrier for seclusion. Choosing the right tree is important — and here the landscaper will study the style and size of the home before making the selection. The ranch-type home will be complemented with small-scale trees — while the large giant of the forest will be chosen for the two-story and the split-level home. Locating trees is an art — the landscaper's art. Correct spacing is another point of interest — and location and spacing are important if the trees are to be healthy and beautiful. The skilled landscaper will plan his tree plantings to be certain that each tree will have sufficient area to develop full spread.

Remember, too, trees and shrubs should be planted at least half their expected mature diameter from the property line — to avoid spreading over into the neighboring yard. Evergreens are usually the good choice, for they hold their green color all year. This includes broadleaved evergreens, and conifers and narrow-leaved evergreens. Care must be taken in selecting evergreens for the home landscape — and with proper selection and location, they require regular care if they are to survive winter injury. Trees and shrubs play a vital part in landscaping — and with proper selection and location, they enhance the beauty of the outdoor scene.

Start Cleanup Now; Avoid Big Problems

With spring in the air, it's time to spring into action on fire hazards. Whether your home stays free from dangerous and destructive fire this year may very well depend on what steps you take right now, the National Fire Protection Association points out.

1. Clean out any stacks of newspapers and magazines, discarded clothing, mattresses, old furniture and lamp shades, discarded — all the clutter that collects in attics, basements and closets.
 2. Do the same clean-up job in the home workshop, tool-shed, scrap, oily rags, old paints must go.
 3. Don't forget about the trash accumulating in the garage, and get rid of dead grass and brush around and near the house.
 4. Repair defective electrical cords and plugs, check over appliances and call a competent electrician if they need attention.
 5. Have your furnace, chimney and stove inspected and cleaned.
- Fire danger lurks in every one of these spots, says the NFPA.
- Don't gamble that your home is safe from fire, says the National Fire Protection Association. How about those oily rags in the kitchen closet — or those old clothes and papers in the attic? One tiny, stray spark and you're out of luck — and a home. Clean up!
