Franklin High School To Adopt Modules?

By ANN OPLAND
The traditional class schedule at Franklin has run from 7:45 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. It was a day which had seven periods of classroom instruction and one period for lunch. Students attended five or six hours of instruction and one or possibly two supervised study times. This traditional schedule ran on a cycle of one day.
Under a new plan being studied by Franklin, the school day would be run for seven classroom periods, with the exception that the hour would be divided up into modules.
A module would be approximately 15 minutes in length. The entire day would consist of 21 modules with two modules for lunch. This new system would run on the basis of one week.
The idea behind this new schedule is to provide a more organized time of study and to establish new group sizes. The school is studying the plan to provide a better means of instruction centered around the idea of individualized study. The plan would consist of three main groups of instruction: The Combined Group, The Inquiry Group and Individualized Study.
The Combined Group would do what the name implies, provide a means of instruction for many students at the same time. A group such as this, able to have up to 200 students active at one time, would involve background and generalization development, content presentation, and evaluation through testing and writing.
The Inquiry Group would be a much smaller group ranging in size from 5 to 15. It would include student involvement, strengthening basic skills, and individualized instruction.
The Independent Study, the student is allowed to proceed on his own with the use of the Instructional Materials Center, specialized resource materials, laboratory facilities, and a greater opportunity for individualized contact with instructors.

Stevenson High School 'Bermudas' Create Pandemonium

By PAUL BENDER
Through the recent adoption of a school constitution, an official election procedure was established. This was put into effect for the first time at Stevenson on May 20.
Because the number of candidates running for office was not large, a primary election was not scheduled. The final election was held Friday when students voted for the candidates of their choice.
The Senate officers are: Steve Antonischeck, President; Tim Smith, Vice-President; Diane Casey, Secretary; Mary Beatty, Treasurer; and Donna Nelson, Corresponding Secretary.
The Junior Class officers are: Paul Bender, President; Gary Sarrut, Vice-President; Kris Paul, Secretary, and Dale Wendel, Treasurer.
"Sayonara," the semi-formal dance held on May 20, was a great success. Sponsored by the Student Senate, the dance took place in the newly built cafeteria and featured a musical group from Northville High.
Friday also marked "Bermuda Day" at Stevenson, where it was a day of chaos.
