July 4 Plans Underway in Farmington Township

A huge community dinner is going to be part of the program for the Fourth of July in Farmington Township. It will be combined with dancing to make it a dinner-dance. The subcommittee organizing the dinner is headed by Grace Nye, and Nancy Iley heads the subcommittee on dancing (both teen and traditional).

Variety is the keyword for the dinner. Since last February Mrs. Nye and her deputy, Marion Spencer, have been making long lists of meats, fowl, sea foods, fruits, vegetables, breads and miscellaneous foods and also all kinds of different ways of preparing each of the foods of each type. The goal is to have a feast of tremendous variety.

Families in Kendallwood I will have to call either Mrs. Nye or Mrs. Spencer in order to obtain their feast assignment. Each family should call in both for itself and also for guests. The lists of foods are so extensive that even if 500 families (residents and guests) seek a feast assignment, not one of any of the other 499 assignments will be a duplicate of the assignment for the 500 family. Each assignment will be unique.

A spiral-cycling system of making these assignments will be used in order to maintain a proportion in the basic types of food regardless of the number joining in the feast.

Using a basic-unit family of two adults and three children, it is expected that only 200 families join in, the variety that will be presented when the feast is spread out at Wooddale School will be greater than the variety that any participant had ever seen before, or even heard of. Soaring balloons flying over the feast will add to the color. Reports on initial enthusiasm indicate that the 200 figure will be topped.

The feast assignments have been planned so that the food can be kept in the oven or refrigerator, because it is hoped that everyone will be out enjoying all the fun and festivities that day rather than staying in the kitchen. A list of fun activities which are to be enjoyed all day during the second half of the afternoon of the Fourth in Kendallwood I has also been released. Chipping contests for golfers and duffers.

Luncheon Set to Assist Children's Ballet League

Interested women throughout the area are turning their energies these days toward the making of a successful ballet league for the Children's Ballet Theater of Oakland County.

The theater, which recently completed its fourth season here, is a non-profit, civic organization to recruit and encourage the talents of children between the ages of 10 and 18 in the Oakland County area.

The luncheon will be held at Glenn Oaks Country Club in Farmington on Monday, June 13, at 12:30 p.m. The music presented will be different from the spring concert. The variety band will entertain the audience with selections from "Mary Poppins," "Sunshine," and the Tijuana Brass' hit song — "Tijuana Taxi."

No admission will be charged.

Mrs. Kreson and Mrs. Charles Martin of Farmington are co-chairmen of the fund raising event. They are assisted by Mrs. Arthur Kiser, Mrs. Stanley Ziskowski, Mrs. Frank Murland, Mrs. Roland Spillett and Mrs. Barnett Winkquist.

The luncheon, of course, is open to the public and anyone wishing to attend is urged to contact any of the committee members mentioned. A large turnout is expected as the theater has already proved stimulating to the community and its continued success is hoped for.

Westland Picks Virgil Gagnon as Council Head

Virgil Gagnon, leading vote-getter in the April 25 incorporation election, is Westland's first City Council president.

Gagnon, a 25-year resident of the community, was the unanimous choice of the council at its first meeting May 16.

However, the election of Councilman Charles McIlhenny as president proved not as smooth. He was picked on a 4-2 vote with Councilmen John Markes and Henry Lundquist dissenting. The candidate abstained from the voting.

Gagnon, 32, is chief president of the Nankin Chamber of Commerce and has owned a local service station for the past 10 years. He was elected a township trustee two years ago.

McIlhenny, 30, was township treasurer and was second in the council election last month.

Completes Course

Capt. Charles A. Hall, 15754 Golfview drive, Livonia, has completed an infantry officer career course at the Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

The captain is a 1954 graduate of Bentley High School in Livonia and a 1960 graduate of Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.
