

Candidates File Petitions

The exception of Arthur Bassett will face the voters. This includes Township Supervisor Curt Hall, Clerk Floyd Cairns, Treasurer Elsie Avery and Trustee Thomas Nolan.

There is talk that Douglas McArthur will file for the other Trustee slot and his nominating petitions are being circulated. McArthur, however, could not be reached by The Observer to either confirm or deny the fact that he is in the race.

All of these people have opposition on the Republican ticket. The opposition grows out of the recent incorporation campaign, but those who are filing for office emphasize that they are acting as private citizens and that the Committee for the Preservation of Farmington Township Inc. is taking no part in the campaign.

The Republican opposition includes: Wendell Brown for Supervisor; Alice Billu for Clerk; Mary Strasser for Treasurer; and Conrad Branstetter and Samuel H. Rubin for the two Trustee vacancies.

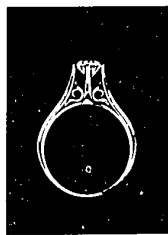

Two other Trustee positions currently held by Earl Oppenheimer and Thomas Duke are not up for election this year as both of these men have two years remaining in the terms which they were elected to in 1964.

Democratic candidates for Township offices are: Aldo Vagnozzi, supervisor; Elizabeth O'Connor, clerk; Joyce T. Hangerford, treasurer; and Harris Izen and that the Committee for the Preservation of Farmington Township Inc. is taking no part in the campaign.

Socially Speaking

by Kathy Ziska GR 4-7261

A few more days and school will be out. Great for the kids! For mothers—more grey hair and economy packages in great quantities of tranquilizers are in order. The first two weeks are the toughest. If you get through those without too many permanent effects, you're well on the road to a not too humdrum, but a well unorganized summer.

It's all the energy and life these young of age have—and really we wouldn't want it any other way because coming home for school bells to ring, you're not a mother if it's not a sad twinge in your heart that you won't see those vigorous, vivacious, and LOUD, LOUD youngsters at home full time (well, mealtimes anyway).

Let's face it, we live these young individuals. When you weren't blessed with one, you didn't mind but now that they're here, they are something you can't live without.

They finally get to be teenagers and this is what the stress is going to be put on now! If you have a way of putting a fact across to them, for heaven's sake and your and mine, DO IT. They feel they have reached the pinnacle of adulthood and are indestructible. The lost teen-ager last week, Arthur Francis Leland III, a teenager who was full of slang energy and much loved, drowned in a pond in the area. He is sadly missed by his parents and young friends.

Another tragic teenage accident occurred in the home area of 16-year-old Sharilyn Siegler. She ended up with 22 stitches in her head from a hammock pole which fell on her. Six X-rays prove no fractures. So, don't slip gingerly into the first few weeks of "SCHOOLS OUT."

THE VISITING NURSES

Service which includes Farmington and Farmington Township held their meeting at the home of Mrs. Donald DeGroot. Each member was to bring their finished apron that are supplied to the girls of the North Farmington High at a recent "Courtroom" held for an open house tea in the fall were discussed.

In last week's column I neglected to mention the name of the Greenacres Estates Association. President. He presided over his first meeting and deserves a mention, so here it is. Best wishes to you Bill Morgan at Greenacres Estates Association President for the year.

Troop No. 116 Honors Scouts

As assembly sounded the proud boy scouts marched in support to the gym of North Farmington High at a recent "Courtroom" held for an open house tea in the fall were discussed.

This Troop, consisting of boys from the North Farmington — West Bloomfield area, have so many things to be proud of that a list of accomplishments is one of the finest in the United States.

Following an invocation by Rev. Lee Brimhall and a welcome from Glen Mingo, several boys received Second Class, First Class, Star and Life Ranks.

driving were among the most common offenses. He also warned that tickets will be issued for noisy mufflers.

In the City Chief Robert Deadman said that during the past week approximately 20 motorcycles had been impounded for equipment violations. He said that these vehicles will be released by the police department upon repair of the cycles.

Deadman added that cutoffs on the exhaust systems of motorcycles were just as illegal as such systems are on cars.

Last week the Farmington City Council instructed the City Attorney to draft ordinances regulating the operation of motorcycles and their rental agencies in the City.

Deadman pointed out that the injury rate for motorcycle riders is very high in accidents. The Department of Public Safety has formulated a program for motorcycle safety and presented it for the first time to the driver education classes at Farmington High School last week.

He's A Lawyer!

Ronald Barry Rader, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rader of 27800 Old Colony Drive, Farmington, received a law degree at the commencement of Wayne State University. The School of Law degrees awarded totaled seven bachelors, 102 juris doctorates and two masters. A total of 2,160 degrees were awarded.

Graduates With Honors From Dickinson College

CARLISLE, Pa. — Miss Patricia Sue Salisbury, of 31746 Staman Circle, Farmington, was graduated magna cum laude from Dickinson College and received the coveted membership key of Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's oldest scholars society.

Only 18 persons in the class of 285 members won election to the society.

Septic Tanks Inadequate

Hall told the group that there would be a $200 charge for the annual $150 connection fee (most of which have already been paid when the houses were purchased) and estimated that the total cost about $9.25 per foot of frontage. He also said that there would be a charge to connect to the sewer from the septic tanks and that the residents would have to arrange this personally.

The residents wanted to know who was responsible for them. They pointed out that two years ago they came to the Township Board with the same problem, and representatives of the Township, the Oakland County Health Commission, and Thompson Brown Company, the developer, met and agreed that no further homes would be built in the area until a means was found that would provide adequate sewage facilities.

This has not been done, the residents charged, as additional homes have been built and this has merely compounded the problem.

Furthermore, the residents charged that the permits issued by the County Health Department were for three bedroom homes and that most of the homes built in the subdivision are four, five or six bedroom dwellings. This requires a larger tile field for the septic tanks and Kilmer told the people that this was the case the County could force them to move out of their homes as the dwelling would be unsanitary and an inadequate tile field for the septic tanks.

Kilmer also advised the people that if they wanted to know who was financially liable for the problem and its correction to "see a lawyer."

Hall pointed out that this would be a civil matter which the courts would have to decide.
