Doctor Urges New Pupils To Get Exams

Children who are entering kindergarten this fall and who have not had a pre-school physical examination should see their doctor some time in July or August to avoid the last minute rush in September.

Luther R. Leader, M.D., Detroit, President of the Michigan State Medical Society, urges that "each child should have a physical examination before entering school or kindergarten. To insure the best of service to the children, doctors recommend that appointments for the examinations be made as early as possible."

Michigan physicians have the cards which the doctor will fill out after the examination. The card is to be presented when the child is registered for school this fall. A certificate will be attached to the card stating that the child has received immunization against the common childhood diseases. Michigan law (section 376) states that all children entering school for the first time shall submit a statement signed by a physician that they have been immunized against smallpox, diphtheria, tuberculosis, tetanus, pertussis and poliomyelitis; a statement signed by one parent or guardian to the effect that the child has not been immunized because of religious convictions or other objection to immunization; or a request signed by one parent or guardian that the local health department give the needed protective injections.

Parents should take their children now for the physical examination to make the process of registration in the fall as efficient and convenient for them as possible, points out Doctor Leader.
