Be A Blonde

Einstein has helped make it possible for you to be a blonde in thirty minutes. This is no science fiction but a discovery made by Helene Curtis researchers that principles of twentieth century physics could yield a big beauty bonus.

The result, a new color accelerating machine just introduced by Helene Curtis which cuts 80% from the bleaching and color processing time necessary to be a blonde, or to effect any other dramatic color change.

"Intra-ray" bulbs in the new Color-Master machine literally wipe hours off the clocks in salons, as patrons need wait only 30 minutes for a first-time bleach, 10 minutes for retouching, and five minutes for toning or tinting.
