Nationals, Major A's Win Festival Finals

Managers Jess Newall of the Americans and Bill Thomas had to be vigilant to get 40 boys in and out of the lineup for the fans at the Jay Cee's cookout. Last Saturday, a warm ideal day for baseball in City Park, the Nationals were more All Star than the Americans by blanking them for the first two innings while scoring 10 runs that included a home run by Steve Winterbottom that cleared the bases.

In their half of the third inning the Nationals added 8 more runs while the Americans were only able to get one run, making the score 18 to 1 in favor of the Nationals. The Americans came alive with 4 runs in the fourth but the Nationals, after their silent fourth inning, tied the score 18 to 18 in the fifth. In the bottom half of the fifth the Americans went down in order. Final score - Nationals 25, Americans 5.

The Major "A" team managed by Bartlett, Griffith and Rene were locked in a tight and exciting game with Major "B" manager by Sterns, Kempf and Himmelspach. This game for the Jaycees under the light was enjoyed by a large crowd. The "A" team pitchers who were Papke, Peeling and Rene only allowed the "B" team four hits - one in the first, third, fourth and fifth innings and only in the first inning did a runner get as far as third base. The "B" pitchers of Grimes, Harte and Himmelspach did not allow a hit until the sixth inning. "A" team catcher and leadoff batter Bartlett got the first hit of the game - a single to right field but was thrown out at second base when Shiffman hit a ground ball to second base. Shiffman at first on the fielders' choice was driven to third on a double by McKendree.

Shortstop Flynn, the next batter, singled driving in Shiffman with the winning run but McKendree and Flynn also scored when the "B" team catcher failed to guard the plate and the infielders were careless while the ball was in play. The next two batters struck out.

Junior Football On Launch Pad

Harvey E. (Ted) Chapman, 3324 Hillcrest, did himself proud at the Columbus Pro-Am Golf tournament on July 28 when his birdie on the 18th green broke a four-way tie for second place.

He was playing in very distinguished company with such golfers on the course as Al Geiberg, Ed Furgol, Dow Finsterwald, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus et al.

The team of Goolby, Velotta, Snyder, and Robyns were victorious.

Chapman carries a seven handicap and is a member at Meadowbrook Golf and Country Club.

with the score 3 runs on 3 hits with the "B" team up at bat for their last time. The "B's", in the last half of the sixth, sent strong batters to the plate without success. Economou flied out, Watson struck out and Grimes flied out to end the game. Major "A"-2, Major "B" 0.

Jr. Legion Names Stars

Eighteenth District champs, the Junior American Legion team will play their next games in Utica this Friday at 9:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. It will be a double elimination tournament, the winner to play in the state tournament at Owosso.

The team involved in the tournament from other parts of the state are Mason, Owosso and St. Clair.

Last Sunday, Christensen's formidable nine defeated the 18th District All Stars 5-4 in nine innings of spirited play.

All Stars set to play at Tiger Stadium on August 8 at 1 p.m. under Christensen's management are: Pitcher Rick Krumm with a 5-1 record (4 saves); catcher, Gerry Turner (6-0); second base, Mike Perry (2-2 and 2 h.r.); short stop, Miles Kearney (3-0); third base, Carl Misch (4-0); outfield, Outfield, Pitcher Chuck Viane, (3-3) (7-3, 20 RBI, 5 h.r., 2 triples, 4 doubles); outfield, Wayne Johnson (2-4, 15 RBI).

The team will be matched against the seventh district which is composed of players from the thumb area. They will play again at the same time on Saturday, and if necessary on Sunday.

Ted Chapman Goffs In Columbus Pro-Am

Beginning of the football season will be ushered in by a football rally to be held August 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the Farmington Senior High School gymnasium.

Parents and boys who will be taking part in the Farmington Junior Football Association program in the weeks to come are urged to attend the rally and get the season off to a rousing start.

Would-be Rockets and Missiles (Farmington's designations for their junior players) are expected to be on hand for the big blast-off.

ONE FLOAT with a winter-time flavor grade, the Farmington Flyers.

Tips on Gardening

Betty Frankel
HONEYSUCKLE
Honeysuckle shrubs are now laden with small juicy berries that the birds find most appetizing. They congregate along the small-leaved branches gorging themselves or swoop down to pluck a tasty tid-bit in midflight. The berries are entertaining, but even without this added attraction these shrubs are outstanding. They have a good natural shape that needs little pruning. They have fine-textured handsome foliage and sweet-scented flowers followed by jewel-like fruits.

So easy are they to grow that they are taken too much for granted and thus overlooked when landscape planning is being done. They are old-fashioned shrubs that are disease resistant and grow well in even rather poor soil. Most varieties prefer sunny situations but there are some kinds that grow well in partial shade. Honeysuckles are native of the Northern Hemisphere. About 175 species have been found growing wild in North America and in Asia. Fifty or more of these species have been brought into cultivation. Some are tall upright shrubs, some are vines, and a few are low procumbent species that make excellent plants for the rock garden.

The Tatarian honeysuckle, Lonicera tatarica, is perhaps the most popular shrub honeysuckle. This native of Russia is a vigorous shrub that grows to ten feet in height. It is thickly clothed with smooth leaves that are one to two and a half inches long, pointed at the tip and round or heart-shaped at the base. They occur in pairs along the stem. In May and June the plants are covered with innumerable small, fragrant pink, white or crimson flowers that are followed in July and August by small round shiny berries that are generally red but in a few varieties are yellow.

Lonicera korolkowii is another well-known honeysuckle. Its foliage has a distinct blue-green case that is a perfect foil for the pink flowers and red berries. Lonicera xylosteum and the Lonicera xylosteum are choice and graceful varieties of L. korolkowii.

Lonicera Macil has yellow flowers that turn white as they age. The fruit is a deep red. Morrow's honeysuckle also has white flowers but grows less than six feet tall. Fragrant honeysuckle, L. fragrantissima and L. Standishii, a similar species, are somewhat less hardy than the previous varieties. They are note worthy varieties, though, because their delightfully scented white flowers appear in late winter and early spring while the branches are still leafless. Japanese honeysuckle (L. japonica of L. Halliana) is undoubtedly the best known of the honeysuckles - although not always the best liked. It is a vine that tends toward rampant unruly growth. It forms a dense tangle of slender stems that often are twenty feet in length. It can be used as a ground cover and is excellent for growth on steep banks. Its long roots hold the soil in place. It is not difficult to prune it to keep it within bounds so it can be grown on a trellis. It makes an attractive and fastgrowing screening plant and is covered for a long period of time with sweet-scented white flowers that change to yellow as they fade. It should not be planted where it will invade other plantings or where it can't be controlled. In some areas in the East it has escaped from gardens and has become a rather pestiferous weed.

The beloved woodbine of English hedgerows is a variety of honeysuckle vine. There are also climbing honeysuckles with red and orange flowers. Lonicera heckrothii is a variety with attractive flame colored flowers that are borne all summer and fall.

Vine honeysuckles may be used to clothe a fence or to screen a porch. The handsome upright shrubs can be used as background plants, as part of the shrub border, or even as part of the foundation planting around the house.

REMEMBERS

Keep up a regular spray program on roses, but do not give them any more fertilizer. . . . Buds are forming on mums so do not pinch off any more growth. . . . Transplant iris and oriental poppies as they are now dormant.

Farmington Honors Its Own

Mrs. Isaac Bond

Mrs. Isaac Bond has been a resident of this area for over seventy years. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Wolfe, who moved from Essex, Ontario, Canada to Detroit. As a girl of ten, she and her parents moved to the Watson farm in Farmington and later moved to the farm on Seven Mile Road.

She attended Detroit and Northville Schools and graduated from Northville High School in 1928. She then taught school for two years in Northville and lived together until his death in 1955.

Mrs. Bond has been very active in local clubs. She has been a member of the Farmington O.E.S. for sixty-five years, serving as the second worthy Matron, secretary for thirty years, the first President of the Matrons' Club, and President of the Oakland County Ass'n. O.E.S.

She was Worthy High Priestess of Trinity White Shrine, president of the Farmington Women's Club and President of the Northville Community Association. She is a member of the First Methodist Church of Farmington.

Her four children are: Mrs. James D. Allen of Grosse Pointe, Howard I. Bond, attorney-at-law of Farmington; Mrs. Harlen H. Morris of Farmington and Floyd A. Bond, Dean of the Business Administration School of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Charles Barnhart

Mrs. Charles Barnhart, 22476 Violet, was born Sarah Steele in New Hudson Nov. 3, 1871. Her parents had come from Germany and she had the normal life of a small town girl.

Mrs. Barnhart and she were married in 1900 and spent the first 12 years in Detroit. Then they operated a small confectionery store at Grand River and Orchard Lake Road.

At that time, 1912, it was known as the Junction. The Detroit and Livonia line split there, one went by way of Orchard Lake to Pontiac and the other through Farmington to Livonia and Plymouth. Their store was next to the waiting room and dispatchers office and was patronized by passengers and sometimes the town kids would walk down for popcorn and peanuts.

Until just recently Sarah thought nothing of walking over a mile to downtown Farmington and carrying her purchases home.

Charley worked for the D.U.R. for a short period and was there when John Clark was superintendent of this division. He passed on in 1940 and their only child died as an infant.

Mrs. Barnhart enjoys the Senior Citizens and has always been fond of reading.

Mrs. Perry Wixom

Mrs. Perry Wixom, 32380 Steel Road was born Clara Steele at the Steele home in Farmington Township. The land at Drake Road and Eleven Mile had been purchased from the government by her grandfather, Edward Steele about 1826.

She was the seventh child in the family with eight boys and five girls. Clara attended the W. Farmington Academy and later Ypsilanti Normal at Central Normal at Mt. Pleasant.

The social activities consisted of card parties, ice cream socials and dances at the Grace House, the Town Hall and Bosford Inn.

June 25, 1903 was the date of her wedding to Perry E. Wixom, the son of another pioneer family. The Wixom home at Farmington Road and Eleven Mile Rd. is now the site of the Presbyterian Church.

Clara taught two years at the abandoned Fairview School on Grand R. and two years at Nine Mile and Meadowbrook, another country school.

Three boys and two girls were born to the Wixoms. Dorothy (Mrs. Alfred Smith), Farmington City, Adeline (Mrs. Harold Jamieson) Farmington Township, Kenneth of Howell, Michigan, Russell and Ralph of Farmington.

She is an active member of the Universalist Unitarian Church, Senior Citizens, Farmington Historical Society and the Women's Club. The original Steele homestead was destroyed by fire in January 1904.

Police Say T-Shirt Not Enough Coverage

Farmington Township Detectives are seeking a white man between the ages of 20 and 30, weighing about 142 pounds in connection with an indecent exposure act at Inkster and 11 Mile Rd. on July 25.

A woman told police that a tall, slim man answering this description stopped her at about 7 p.m. wearing only a T-shirt. The woman said that he was driving a late model dark blue car with which he tried to block her path.

NBD Designated As Paying Agent

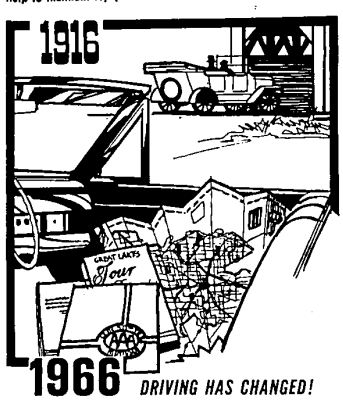

National Bank of Detroit has been named paying agent for $275,000 in bonds of the Township of Farmington, Byron Lapham, NBD Farmington Vice President, said the bank had purchased a substantial portion of the issue for its own portfolio, as part of NBD's policy of supporting Farmington community projects.
