City To Improve Alleys and Walks

In action taken at Monday's City Council meeting, resolutions were adopted to proceed with improvements to alleys from Violet to Lilac, Lilac to Floral, and Nine Mile to Hawthorne. It also was resolved to send notices to property owners relative to improvements of sidewalks in the City. Most of the current sidewalk program is concerned with placement of walks where there do not now exist but areas are subject to heavy pedestrian traffic. Sidewalks never completed on State Street were added to this year's list at the suggestion of Howard Thayer. Property owners will be allowed 30 days to have sidewalks installed. If not undertaken during that time, the City will perform the work and bill the affected property owner. Charges of $100 or less are to be paid in one installment, $200 or more in two installments, and $300 or more in three payments. During the public hearing relative to the paving of Nine Mile from Farmington Rd. to the 1-95 Expressway Ramp, John Pitt, attorney for Mercury Development Co. appraised the question why the north side of the road seems to be 121 feet shorter than the south side is located. City Manager John Dinnan said that this was altogether possible with the widening of the expressway angle in together, but he would have the engineers check to make sure that there had been no inclusions in the assessment. A bid was accepted from O'Green Ford on a 3/4-ton pickup truck as theirs was the low figure at $2,336.71.

City To Meet With Alta Loma

Members of the City Council will meet with the officers of the Alta Loma Homeowners Association on August 11 at 7:30 p.m. regarding the improvements to be made on roads within the subdivision. City engineers have completed their estimates on the costs expected for the phase 2 restoration of drains and culverts under existing driveways; this would have to be a specific study rather than a general estimate. Phase 1 improvements of curbs and cut ditches are estimated at $5,430. Phase 2 figures arrived at are very approximate as explained above and amount to $9,515. Phase 3 which includes improvements to entrances and approaches is expected to cost around $3200 and Phase 4 (improvements to intersections) will be about $2800.

At the August 11 meeting, a determination should be made as to the city's share of the costs. They will be paid from the general fund street maintenance program.

Clarenceville B. of E., CEA Ratify Contract

At a regular meeting on July 22, 1966, the Clarenceville Board of Education expressed gratitude to members of both bargaining teams for a job well done. It is the expressed hope of both groups that this instrument, though not perfect, will serve as a basis for cooperation in future negotiations for many years to come.

Consolidation

gram should be explained to them as it progresses. City Manager John Dinnan replied that the matter of utility improvements consisting of street lighting and drainage will be two involved both financially and geographically. "This will require quite a bit of study, but we will have some of the technical information ready by the August 11 meeting."

Mayor Brotherton expressed surprise at the number of people he had met during the Festival days who are interested in consolidation as opposed to incorporation. Peterson hoped that a study could be conducted on a non-partisan basis as partnership has no place in the ultimate decision.

NOTICE OF HEARING

TAKE NOTICE THAT the City Council of the City of Farmington, Michigan, proposes to acquire a 4.73 acre parcel of land just south of Farmington Trailer Park. This was done so that the owners of the parcel could accommodate about 35 additional trailers if he could get the approval of 80 per cent of the property owners within 100 feet of its borders. This was accomplished, so the Commission recommended to the Board of Appeals that the request for acquisition be granted with the provision that there would be no additional entrance to the park involved. A petition was submitted requesting the vacation of certain lots in Farmington Heights subdivision and the elimination of Washburn Ave. and Broad Blvd. This was granted since they are unimproved thoroughfares. Russell Nankervis pointed out that as much as the Commission was set up on a basis of one, two and three year terms for the members, it was time for some of them to be reappointed and it should be ascertained before next month's meeting which members are involved.

Twp. Planners Approve Car Wash Amendment

An amendment to an existing ordinance regulating the operation of car washes within the Township was approved by the board over the objections of a proponent who is building one such facility at Nine Mile Rd. and Shawwassee. He wanted the existing spaces reduced from five to four so that this operation would have enough room for car drying. Township planner Charles Lehman said that the amendment had been drafted after a wide study of existing ones in localities and that the five-car space was considered a fair and just requirement. Besides the five-car requirement, the amendment calls for a 20 foot setback not to be used as a car drying area.

A do-it-yourself car wash already exists within the Township in the No-conforming Use category since the amendment had not been drafted when it first came up. Some months ago, the Commission approved a rezoning to

Loses Control Hits Utility Pole

Mrs. Catherine Goulden Joy, 51, 8901 Greenview, Detroit, was slightly injured Sunday, July 31, when she apparently lost control of her car while driving on Grand River Avenue and into the utility pole in front of the Lakeway Drive-In. Traveling south on Lakeway, Mrs. Joy was in the right lane when she was struck by a car coming from the north. She and her son were both taken to Detroit Hospital and released after treatment for minor injuries.

Understanding your HEALTH

There is no reason to condemn sun bathing altogether. (Not only does a reasonable amount of sunning give one a tanned, healthy look, but it helps to form vitamin D to the body.) However, too much exposure to the other hand, will form a toxic substance. The best tan is achieved by short day-to-day periods of exposure, rather than by long weekend-by-weekend periods. Repeated or so-called "chocolate" exposure, over longer periods should be avoided to prevent premature aging of the skin. The incidence of skin cancer is also a measurable greater among folks subjected to chronic over-exposure. Sunbath oils and lotions containing the ultra-violet absorbers are very helpful in protecting you against the sun's rays. Such preparations contain chemicals that are invisible to a large part of the ultra-violet radiation to protect the deeper layers of the skin. Limit the time exposure to 15 minutes of sun bathing daily until your tan starts to deepen. Early morning and late afternoon sunbathing, when more ultra-violet light is blocked by the earth's atmosphere. Please remember, the best tan always comes in small doses.

Festival Memories

"tremendous" - "the greatest" - none does justice to the performance enjoyed by a nearly full house.

The big festival parade on Saturday was all that was promised and more. Taking almost an hour to pass a given point, the parade included over 70 entries - dignitaries, floats, floats, floats, and pretty girls, all combined to delight the crowds that joined the nearly two-mile-long parade route. The crowd was estimated at 7,000.

After the parade dispersed, the dignitaries and those designated to receive special honors, all of whom had been in the parade, were seated on the band stand at the Village Green and given a special luncheon.

MEANWHILE, ALL OF the planned events were held on schedule and well attended. Many of the candidates running in the August Primary were in attendance during the Festival and added color and interest with their campaign stunts, literature, and hand-shaking. The finale to the three days of festivities was the open air square dance in the Downtown Farmington Center on Saturday evening. The weatherman, who had smiled for three days of the Festival, produced cool breezes, and a huge silvery moon for those who danced away the closing hours of the event.

BOARD OF COMMERCE President William Bowman said that the Board, sponsors of the Festival, were in agreement that the three-day affair was a tremendous success. He reminded us, however, that this is only the second year of the Festival and suggestions for additions and improvements are already in the files for next year. Bowman added that the Board of Commerce will come any and all suggestions from the public on ways to improve the Festival. Suggestions may be telephoned to the Board of Commerce office, G1-3440.

THE COST FOR underground installation of wires within subdivision is about $200 per home at the present time, according to the engineers, but the cost for a one-half mile installation was over $2,000.

Charles Lorion, who had initiated the suggestion several months ago, was unconvinced that the problems would be as great as he presented. He said that underground installations had been made in other communities and he didn't see why the same couldn't be done in Farmington.
