The robbery was reported by Tom Weishell, who said that both men wore nylon stockings over their faces. One of the stockings was found later.

Another armed robbery took place October 29 at the Bahama Motel by two men who entered the motel and asked about a long-term rental of a room. Taken from a cash register and the wallet of the man on duty was $150.

The other six robberies occurred at Farmington Transmission, 30400 Grand River, (13.35 in tools taken); Steel Tex, 30210 W. 18th Mile, where a fire was also set; Bluewater Bates Store (shotgun shells missing); the Pleasure and Leisure Furniture Co., 28125 Grand River (2000 taken); Trend Gift Shop at Kendallwood (450 missing); and Hesper Clothing Store also at Kendallwood ($493 taken).

Nurses To Attend Meeting On Aging

"Add Life to Years" is the theme of a nursing conference on problems of the aging to be held November 16 at Oakland University. Primarily for registered and practical nurses in Oakland, Macomb, Genesee and Wayne counties, the conference is open to students and to anyone interested in problems of geriatrics. Practical demonstrations of rehabilitation techniques and visual aids will widen the scope of the panel discussions planned throughout the day.

The conference is sponsored by the Division of Continuing Education at Oakland University in cooperation with the Oakland District Nurses Association, Oakland County Licensed Practical Nurses Association and the Kenny-Michigan Rehabilitation Foundation. Dr. Edwin M. Smith, associate professor, Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, University of Michigan College of Medicine, will be the morning speaker, following an 8:30 a.m. registration and a general session at 9:30.

David J. Doherty, Ph.D., Assistant Director, Mott Center for Community Affairs at the University, will welcome the nursing conference delegates. He will be joined by Mary Owens, R.N., president, Oakland District Nurses Association, and Mrs. Beatrice Schmansky, L.P.N., president, Oakland County District Licensed Practical Nurses Association.

Presiding over the day's program will be Mary V. Walker, R.N., associate director, Mercy School of Nursing of Detroit, Pontiac unit.

At 11 a.m., Helen Miller, R.N., of the Kenny-Michigan Rehabilitation Foundation, will give a demonstration of rehabilitation techniques, using a model and actual equipment to discuss the "Role of the Nurse in Rehabilitation."

After luncheon, a general session will feature a discussion led by Miss Miller after the showing of a special film, "Assisting the Aged Through USE of Community Resources" will be presented in a 3 p.m. panel discussion moderated by Mrs. Lois Green, social worker, Pontiac State Hospital. Panelists include Dr. Bernard Berman, director, Oakland County Health Department; Dr. Hinkley, executive director, Oakland County Bureau of Social Aid; Mrs. Ann Mok, R.N., director, South Oakland County Visiting Nurses Association; and Mrs. Helen McLennan, consultant on aging, Family Service of Oakland County.

The conference will conclude with a coffee hour and an opportunity for panelists and speakers to answer specific questions on individual problems.

Special rates are available to members of nursing associations and to students. Association members who do not register until the day of the conference are asked to present their organization membership cards in order to qualify for the reduced rate.

Because almost 300 participants are expected at the Wednesday conference, early registration is advised in order to reserve space for the meetings and for the luncheon. Inquiries may be directed to the Conference Department, Oakland University, Rochester, Michigan.

OLD HOMESTEAD

SHIRLEY BERGER GR. 6-3348

Trying to make up for the time lapse since last a column appeared, we scurried around the other day becoming acquainted with some of the new families who have not yet been introduced in print. In the lovely house, still quite new, which has recently been vacated by the Orans (they have moved to Chelsea) the Barr family is now in residence. Dr. Ronald Barr is a dentist in Farmington, and their former home was in Novi. Rose was busy trying to remove the Halloween soap decorations, but took time out to talk about Linda who is 10, Lonnie who is 9, and the remaining member of the family, Schatzle, a miniature dachshund. We had never seen a replica of the full-grown variety before. She's cute!

At the new colonial on the corner of Lyman and Old Homestead, we met the Drews. First of all, there was Peppy, the fox terrier, wagging a welcome. Mr. and Mrs. Drew are Robert and Gay. The children are Michele, 10; Kim, 9; Michael, 7; and Lynn, 6.

Lee and Jeanne Plante have occupied the new house next door to Bill and Shirley Simmons and are still adding finishing touches. Jeanne has the most captivating green eyes the color of shamrocks. Their youngsters are Donna, 10; David, 7; and Lee Ann, 5.

Mrs. Moore across the street from them in the grey brick was not available on visiting day, but we do know from the young generation that seven year old Kim lives there and has two brothers. We'll get acquainted eventually.

No one was home in the newly finished contemporary on Quakerstown, either, but we'll look forward to an early meeting.

Mary Checketts reported that their pumpkin crop was gigantic this year. Audrey Brunt gave her some new-type Burpee seeds, and growing on the money slope as they do, they didn't need into huge products. One of them weighing 10 pounds was almost large enough to be Cinderella's coach without any transformation. Another tipped the scales at 55.

Joe and Irene Larson, in a combined business and pleasure trip, spent two exciting weeks in various parts of South America. The two older Larson daughters stayed with the Gruenwalds while their parents were away, and little Linny went up to visit Aunt Edie in Ludington. More about their trip after they catch their breath.

Faculty Wives

Meet At Prexy's

A wine tasting demonstration by Mr. John Corbett, of the J. L. Hudson Co., was featured at the October 18 meeting of the Faculty Wives of Oakland Community College. The Wives Club met at the home of OGC President and Mrs. John Tirrell in Bloomfield Hills.
