

Northville Atty. Heads College Citizens Group

Clifton D. Hill, Northville attorney, was elected president and Charles Lowe, Garden City attorney, was named vice president as a group of area citizens completed organization of the non-profit Schoolcraft College Foundation Thursday Oct. 13, in the Waterman Campus Center.

Other officers are: George L. Clark, Northville, secretary; Robert K. Barbour, Plymouth, treasurer; and Gordon R. Ramsey, Livonia, assistant treasurer.

The Foundation was organized to assist the college by seeking endowment funds for the development of an on-campus cultural center and for student services.

Kenneth Hulsing, Plymouth; William R. Keith, Garden City; James Thomas and E. D. Dougherty, both of Livonia; Mrs. Norman E. Kuegler, A. Russell Clarke, Stanley J. Johnston, William D. Tyler, Harold E. Bitner, all of Northville; and Dr. Eric J. Bradner, president of Schoolcraft College.

Hill appointed three committees to begin development of a Foundation program. They were: publicity — Mrs. Kuegler, chairman; capital additions — McKeon, chairman, Reef and Ramsey; and scholarships — Hoffman, chairman, and Freyd.

In a review of the college building program, Dr. Bradner told trustees the campus center and a vocational-technical building were opened this year, explained that a second classroom building and a physical education plant were in the planning stages, and said the next major construction project was a cultural complex to serve both college and community needs.

Such a complex, he said, would provide an auditorium capable of staging operas, drama and symphony orchestras, an art gallery, and instructional areas for art, music, drama, and dance.

In addition, Bradner said, the college has an immediate need to match a $10,000 gift from Sheldon Hayes, Northville businessman. Hayes made the grant this summer on condition it be matched and that the funds be used for student services.

"There is a real need for this Foundation," Bradner said, "its work is cut out for it and it can provide a great service to the college, to the students and to the community."

TROPHIES FOR outstanding play in the junior boys; Richard Leonard, midget boys; and Michael Pachota, senior boys. Missing from the picture were: Gordon Merna, Robbie Dirasian, James Garney, and Larry Newbold.

Offer New Ways to Aid Asthmatics

ANN ARBOR — A University of Michigan physician has offered a seven-point program for controlling asthmatic bronchitis, a disease that usually strikes young adults — both men and women — when they are starting to earn a living and establish their own families.

Just back from presenting his recommendations to a medical congress in Europe, Dr. Robert G. Lovell said asthmatic bronchitis "is one of the prime causes of pulmonary disability in England, and is an epidemic problem in the United States."

He said the disease usually follows an insidious pattern: a "cold" that persists longer than usual, followed by wheezing which is aggravated by exertion; absenteeism; longer and longer periods for recovery.

Finally, he said, the patient is unable to work and becomes a "permanent respiratory cripple." The progression of the disease ends "when the lungs can no longer support life."

Dr. Lovell's analysis of 100 cases led him to blame "cigarette smoking for the aggravation and perpetuation of asthmatic bronchitis . . . it may be one of the initiating causes."

Treatment is a long-term affair along these 7 lines: Stop smoking, even if the physician must prescribe sedatives and tranquilizers. Control environment to avoid irritant dusts and chemicals. Control food and nutrition. Maintain regular mild exercise. Begin long-term use of drugs such as antibiotics and bronchodilators. Conduct a full-scale allergy evaluation to detect any contributory reactions the patient may have.

The seventh treatment may be as important as all the rest combined, said the U.M. doctor: It calls for the physician to maintain close touch with his patient, and furnish him the encouragement and determination to stick with the treatment.

Here's Chance to Unload Old Glasses And Benefit Indigent

Those old or unused eyeglasses which many people have lying around the house are urgently needed by poor people world over according to Harry J. Will, head of the Harry J. Will Funeral Home Inc. on Plymouth Road in Redford Township.

Will has volunteered to collect discarded eyeglasses for distribution by New Eyes for The Needy Inc., a non-profit non-sectarian organization in Short Hills, N. J. The sole purpose of the group is to help provide better vision for those who can't afford to buy glasses.

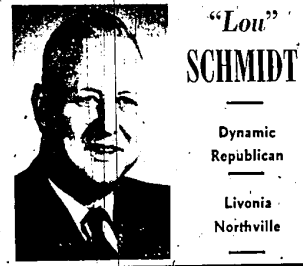

Area residents who wish to help this cause may bring the discarded glasses to the Harry J. Will Funeral Home Inc. where they will be wrapped and sent to New Eyes.

The organization was founded in 1932 by Mrs. Arthur Frey and collects glasses, broken jewelry and pieces of precious metal. The work of sorting, testing, overseas packaging and acknowledging the thousands of pairs of glasses received each year is done by volunteers.

"All metal-framed glasses and jewelry are sold to a refinery," said Will. "The proceeds cash is used to purchase new prescription glasses for the indigent. Unbroken plastic-framed glasses are tested and sent abroad to medical missions and charitable agencies equipped to dispense them properly."

Those wishing to donate articles to New Eyes may do so by dropping off the donations at the Harry J. Will Funeral Home.
