Chabot-Cicciarelli Wed In Nuptial High Mass

Sandra Lee Chabot and William Cicciarelli exchanged vows recently in St. Robert, Bellarmine Catholic Church at a 10 a.m. nuptial High Mass. Father George Stromski officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Chabot of Livonia and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cicciarelli of Livonia.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, wearing an "A" line gown of silk organza with re-embroidered alencon lace outlining her sweetheart neckline and front skirt and chapel train. Her bouffant illusion veil was held in place with a headpiece of silk organza petals trimmed with lily of the valley. She carried a colonial bouquet of stephanotis, white baby carnations and pink sweetheart roses.

The seven attendants wore identical floor length gowns of pale pink silk tulle trimmed with guipure lace on the sleeves and hemlines. Their colonial bouquets were light and dark pink carnations.

Mrs. Marlene Tyne of Detroit was matron of honor and the junior bridesmaids were June and Marie Cicciarelli, sisters of the groom. The bridesmaids included Janet Frink of Rochester, Sue Hickley of Midland and Roberta Chabot and Patricia Chabot, cousins of the bride.

The flower girl was Karen Rodgers, cousin of the bride. She wore a long full gown of pale pink silk organza over tulle. Her headpiece was a brown of tiny pink sweetheart roses. She carried a basket of pink carnations.

In the morning the bride's mother wore a turquoise blue crepe sheath with matching lace jacket and matching accessories. In the evening reception she wore an ice blue brocade floor length gown.

The groom's mother wore a yellow gold shantung suit with brown accessories. For the evening she wore a silver metallic floor length gown.

Joe Smith was best man, the ushers were Wayne Stevens, Christopher Chabot, Paul Villaire and Michael Vronick.

A wedding breakfast was held at Botsford Inn and an evening reception at Roma Hall with 300 guests attending.

For her going away ensemble the bride chose a dark green Italian knit suit. The newlyweds selected a honeymoon to the Northern Peninsula. Upon their return they will reside in Lansing where they will complete their senior year at Michigan State University. Bud is majoring in Math and Sandra in English.

The Distaff Side...

By Jerry Wendt, Women's Editor

It is the ungodly hour of 7 a.m. in the morning. The studio is almost empty for no audience is allowed to view the show. A dark, curly haired, husky man paces back and forth with a worried look on his face. He is waiting for his script. In a few moments he will go on the air. His name is Frank Blair and he does the news for the Today show.

In the center of the stage, an impressive looking man with a ruddy complexion, wearing a purple vest and a silver cross on a chain around his neck is being interviewed by host Hugh Downs. That is Robert Stoppard, Anglican Lord Bishop of London.

Most of the Today success depends upon Downs. In addition to his knowledge and ability, he has an unusually amiable and sympathetic manner while interviewing which endears him to both viewers and subjects.

Two large color TV sets suspended before the crew and two amplifiers pick up the sound. We watched while the Lord Bishop was speaking.

Westminster College, in Fulton, Mo. had decided to dedicate its new library in the name of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, who had visited there during the war.

After the snow we repaired downstairs in the NBC Coffee Shop and had breakfast with the cast. It was a tremendous moment for us.

Downs is probably the best subject that we have ever interviewed. The first impression is of enormous vitality. He is a handsome man, with a kind manner, and literally crackles with energy.

He loves "I work, his family and he talks well and easily on most subjects. He is not the least bit flip or blasé and it is his interest in a life I could him that is responsible.

We asked him the obvious question first, "What effect did these hours of "Upon your family and your life?"

"The adjustment wasn't quite so rapid as it might seem," he said, "I had been on the Johnny Carson show and had done many 'Weekend Update' segments."

"I worried about my family at first," he said, "It meant that they would have to move into the city. It has been the best thing that ever happened to them. They have had the advantages of all the cultural museums and the experience of meeting many different kinds of people.

"I feel that the children have learned to adjust."

Proof of it is that when his son who is talented in photography, he went into the Navy and is now studying at the excellent Navy School of Photography in Pensacola.

"Besides," Downs' brown eyes twinkled, "my daughter Debra always had one advantage over the other children, that she really enjoyed. She could always tell her Daddy when it was time for him to go to bed. She rarely missed the opportunity. Hugh said with a chuckle, of saying "Daddy it's your bedtime, but I can still stay up for awhile."

Downs is a realist about his work. His words should be a guide for anyone dealing with people and the news.

We asked him how he managed to remain objective, and never reveal his personal feelings when on the air.

"I am objective on that point," he said with unusual seriousness. "I never ever to interfere or force my own opinions on anyone. My total job is to see that a person tells his story and tells it so that people can understand it. My goal is to see that the interviewer and the public have this opportunity."

"I am determined to keep out of it as long as I am on the air," he said.

Like so many people in the top in New York, Downs is a midwesterner from Ohio. He admits that he still enjoys meeting celebrities.

"Aren't you ever tempted to wield any power," we asked. "You can realize that an opportunity you have."

"No," he said and then he smiled, "I always remember an old saying about the magician believes his own magic, the show is his."
