

Whole Outdoors Can Become A Living Room In Summer

The whole outdoors can become your living room when summer time comes to suburbia.

And whether you choose to do your leisure living on porch, patio, breezeway or out in the yard, there are furnishings for that living room just right for your family's taste.

The variety of outdoor furniture is greater than ever this year.

The sturdy redwood chairs, couches and benches still are popular, and rightly so with the gay colors now covering their cushions.

Well-defined prints in summer's own colors — blue and green, yellow and orange — are seen most.

Also tops in popularity is the practical light-weight aluminum and nylon webbing furniture. You can find it now in rocking chairs as well as straight chairs and chaises, and the newest of colors for this style furniture is a bright multi-use combination with a circus-striped patio umbrella to match.

Versatile aluminum lends itself to many kinds of outdoor living furnishings.

Tubing also furnishes frames for cushioned chairs and chairs with tables to match, and the marvelously comfortable chair and chaise sets that are tubing wrapped with air-filled vinyl tubing.

Aluminum frames with spring cushions make up colorful and luxurious patio sets. Some of the gliders and chaises convert to beds for sleeping porches.

Rattan and wicker furniture is becoming more popular each year. There's the tightly hand-woven rattan, and a more sophisticated dark stained variety that makes for elegance indoors or out.

White-painted wrought iron is another type of outdoor furniture that can go simple or glamorous. Practical little sets of chairs and benches can stay in the garden for a pretty accent, or wrought iron, more intricate ly styled and cushioned in subtle shades, furnishes a patio or game room in high fashion.

New are fresh versions of many old favorites in outdoor furniture.

There's a double-pointed item that can be chair, chaise or flat cot for sunning or sleeping, depending on how you adjust its three hinged sections. It's made with a steel frame and bright vinyl tubing.

You'll also find canvas and wood director's chairs in every color of the rainbow, plus a few combinations. And the favorite butterfly chair, for which new covers now are available. New is a cool nylon mesh seat.

For easy toting to lawn or beach, vinyl or terry-covered, there are huge beach rolls, pads and pillows that should be delightful for sunbathers.

And for those who want their summer comfort old-fashioned, there's fine assortment of porch swings and hammocks.

Suburbia Mothers Are Like Cabbies

The old saying among suburban mothers goes this way:

When you deliver a baby in the hospital, that's just the beginning.

After that you deliver him to the doctor and the dentist, to nursery school, to Sunday school, to choir rehearsal, to the doctor and dentist, to Cub Scouts and Brownies, to the doctor and dentist.

And as time goes on you deliver him to Little League, to after-school clubs, to music lessons, to the doctor and dentist, to Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, to the other side of town to play with that special school friend.

Still later you are delivering him to the library and the YMCA, to dancing lessons and Friday night parties, to the doctor and dentist and now the orthodontist, to football games, to the hospital emergency room for that cut knee, to school concerts, to weekend camp, and still to the doctor and dentist.

You may deliver him as he delivers The Observer.

Or daily to community college!

It's all a traditional and accepted part of living in suburbia, where the big lots and open spaces we love make for magnificent distances between home and school and library and doctor's offices.

There are, of course, a few remedies.

One is to screen carefully any musical instrument your child decides to play. It's got to be one he can carry. That saves many delivery trips to school, though it may deplete the school orchestras of bass viol, tubas and kettle drums.

One of the latest in appliances for barbecuing is the Roper Gas Bar-B-Que Grill, says Don Miller of Burton Hollow Hardware.

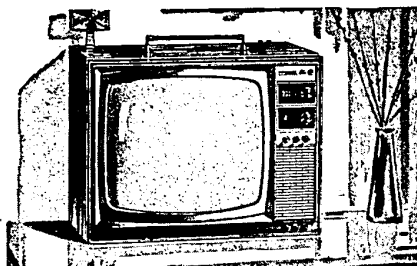

The grill is gas operated, gives a delicious barbecue flavor to anything that is cooked, but does not actually use charcoal. There is no hard starts with the Roper, no long waits for the charcoal to burn, no ashes to clean.

High-Blood Sugar? Or Low Blood Sugar?

One hundred and fifty years ago, average annual consumption of sugar per capita in the United States was five pounds. Today over 100 pounds per capita each year! The increase in high blood sugar and low blood sugar has been coincidental with the consumption of sugar. It has been predicted that within a dozen years, half of us in the United States, able to work and pay taxes, will be forced to take care of the other half, who will be in need of care, because of disability.

Learn how low to maintain a better-balanced body chemistry! In many cases of low blood sugar there is usually a strong craving for coffee. Dr. Abrahamson — in his book, Body, Mind & Sugar — has pointed out that it is practically impossible to control low blood sugar if the patient insists in drinking coffee.

If you have abnormal and frequent hunger pangs, and crave sweets constantly; also desire for starches, and coffee, you need this nutritional plan.

Try ZERBO'S Nutritional body rebuilding program. Come for a free interview, and let us show you how we have helped hundreds of others. Dr. Code Martin of New York has found almost every delinquent with a body chemistry, low in Blood-Sugar Levels.
