Party Store License Transferred By 4-1 Vote

The Garden City Council approved the transfer of a liquor license for a party store from Mary Zentz to John E. 6254 Middlebelt Road.

The transfer of the S.D.M. license was approved on a 4-1 vote with Councilman James Lowe dissenting because he did not receive a written recommendation from the request from Police Chief Robert Behrendt.

Behrendt said at the City Council meeting that his letter of recommendation was in the mail to the councilmen, who did not receive it by last week's meeting.

Teens Join Ranks To Stamp Out Fat

"From Piggy to Twiggy with the In-Group." That's the go-go slogan a group of youthful Detroit area weight watchers, boys and girls together, have picked for themselves as they plunge into a planned program to stamp out teen-age obesity.

Jim Altman, 16, himself a successful weight watcher as well as a knowledgeable junior high schooler, plays a major role in the group's Saturday morning meetings.

"Teen-age girls with middle-age spread," he says, "just can't wear miniskirts, patterned hose and square-toed shoes. But if they don't, they find it hard to be accepted by their group in school and in their neighborhood."

"Fat boys have the same problem, although they are more concerned about not being able to get going on the 'in' sports like tennis, golf, bowling and skiing. You can't really hide a belly, no matter how large a sweater you wear to cover up."

"Piggy to Twiggy" meetings are strictly "no adults" affairs, for youngsters from 10 to 17. Vagging, over-protective mothers are particularly unwanted. The meetings are run by the kids, for the kids.

"It's remarkable how eagerly these youngsters accept an adult responsibility for their weight loss and weight control programs," says Florence Mark, executive director of the Weight Watchers of Eastern Michigan.

"We tend to treat it lightly, but teen-age obesity is a real emotional tragedy. I was a fat girl myself, size 16 at age 16, and I can still remember the boys whispering behind my back: 'She's built like a brick house.' It's easy to get a broken heart when you're 16, but it still hurts."

Over-protective mothers, themselves overweight, are
