Announcing

... as a community service, sponsorship of the following course in the Farmington High Schools.

The Home Economics Departments at Farmington and North Farmington High Schools are planning to incorporate a unit in their classes dealing with the selection and care of clothing. This unit will be taught by using a booklet printed by the National Institute of Drycleaning titled "The Clothes We Wear" written by Dr. Dorothy Siegert Lyle who was formerly a consultant for the National Education Association. Prior to teaching this unit, the teachers involved will attend an In-Service Workshop at Farmington High Schools on October 11th when Mr. Roy Watts, a consultant for the National Institute of Drycleaning, will discuss the many aspects of the selection and care of various kinds of fabrics. We are hopeful that this experience will help our students become prepared to be more intelligent consumers with respect to the many types of new fabrics now being manufactured.

The proprietors of Grimes Cleaners and Farmington Cleaners are the local sponsors for this program. They are jointly providing the teaching materials necessary to teach this unit and they are also responsible for providing the consultant from the National Institute of Drycleaning. We are very happy to be working on a program for our schools in conjunction with some of our local business people.
