HANG IT

Hang what? Christmas is a long way away. Not really, Mr. Merchant. In a short two months you will be taking down your Christ-

To the retail merchant, the thought of another Christmas, aside from its spiritual and personal meaning, can be frightening! Because Christmas means hard work to the retail merchant . . . days and nights of hard work. And unless that work is preceded by careful planning, well in advance, the results can be less than satisfactory. Part of that planning involves telling the prospective customers what merchandise is being offered for sale. Actually, it involves much more than just telling them i... it involves selling them! Selling them on the merits of both the merchandise itself and on the store where it can be found.

Planning your Christmas advertising need not discourage you, Mr. Merchant. The Classified Advertising Department of the Observer has been preparing for Christmas, too! 14 skilled advertising people await the opportunity to discuss your Christmas advertising program with you.

In the near future a member of the Observer Classified Advertising Department will call on you. Armed with fresh, new ideas, copy and art, he will tailor-make a program of effective Christmas advertising for the Annual Classified Christmas Gift Spotter. Go ahead and hang it . . . it's time to get ready for Christmas!
