THE "NEVER at home kind of people" are Jack and Bea Clayton of Colony Park Dr. Their home, originally Boston, gave Bea a chance to get there early to visit her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Louis D'Alvino of Jamaica Plain and mother, Mrs. Beatrice Barone of Chestnut Hill.

Jack, scheduled for a lecture at a Boston College Law School seminar for incoming law students, arrived on the weekend. He is the attorney in charge of Federal Trade Regulations at General Motors.

The following week-end, Jack and Bea spent with Mr. and Mrs. William Simon of Washington D.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Edward McGrath and Mrs. and Mrs. Frader Hilder of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gillette of Detroit and sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Neas of Brookfield, Wis. at the Notre Dame football game.

The group, including several others—a total of 40—gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Levy in South Bend, Ind. for lunch. After the game, fun included cocktails and dinner at the Levy's.

A FUN KNOB of party at the home of Mary and Bill Lowery on Halloween night was a baby shower for Pat and Bob Hodak of Livonia. It was a surprise. The guests were told to dress as babies and Pat and Bob were just coming to a dress-up Halloween party—they came as little red riding hood and the big bad wolf.

If you know Mary Lowery, you know she is a real clever gal, so everyone was waiting to see what costume Bill would be sporting. Mary, as usual, came up with a real gem! Bill was dressed for the party as a baby hippie.

Men brought trinkets for the father-to-be, a real occasion this, since it is their first blessed event in their 14 years of wedded bliss, like a survival package for fathers-to-be in waiting, including a deck of cards, a bottle of beer, an orange, dice, cigarettes, dime for phone calls to spread the good news and tranquility.

THE INTERNATIONAL Convention of the Beta Sigma Phi was held at the Statler Hilton in Detroit. Area members of the Pi Chapter were: President Ginny Cook; Jan Russell; Linda Dimmock; and Marvel Stelger.

Briar Hill NEWS

Pat Ruehle's parents came from Toledo last weekend to stay with the Ruehles' son, while Pat and Dick drove to Columbus, O., for a visit with the Loebels, formerly of Beantown. It was a pleasant weekend for all and the Loebels send their hellos to all their old friends in Briar Hill.

The Rieskes of Briar Hill also had a weekend spent—a fraternity brother of Tom's from Hope College. The guests' home is Illinois but he is doing graduate work at Michigan State and took a few days off to see Tom and Carol. Saturday night they were all to be found at the Briar Hill Square Dance enjoying a fun evening.

SANDRA and Charles Weston are the new owners of the Stephanie home on Briar Hill and when I talked to her, I was sure from her accent she was an Easterner—but discovered they were both born in Michigan.

They had been in the Farmington area 10 months before originally moving to the area from New Jersey. Charles was a teacher in the east but is now working for the Ford Motor Company. Sandra is busy taking care of son, Kim, 6, and daughter, Tammie, 4. A warm welcome to the Westons from Briar Hill.

Briar Hill Book Club's November meeting is Monday, Nov. 13, at the home of Marilyn Taggett, on Northwick. Any member who will not be there, please call.
