zations that were formed with such high hopes during the summer?
One, tagged YOU, for Youth Organization Unlimited, was set plot represent the constitution was approved by the City Commission on Children and Youth, in August.
The basic idea behind YOU was that the group would function independently of the school systems, and concentrate on community-wide projects.
LINC (Livonia Intra Council) was, on the other hand, set up with only the three high schools of the Livonia Public School System. Its function was to provide communication among student leaders and its sphere of activity was to be within the school system.

THE LEAVES have fallen, fhanksgiving has come and gone and neither group is function-and netter group is functioning yet.

YOU, the city-wide organization, is actually closer to reality. After receiving Youth Commission support, the constitution had to be passed by all of the high school student all of the high school student councils.

Jack Hoffman, president of Stevenson's council, said that the schools are now ready to appoint representatives. He thinks there's a good chance YOU will meet for the first Marketing is done daily, and food is purchased fresh in separate stores.

Mansour pointed out that the life of a teenager in Iraq is quite different, Students three, he explained, are not allowed to date openly, park in cars or run around.

LINC seems to be bogged down somewhere in the Li-vonia Schools' administrative system.

system.

Because it will function as a student organization within the school system, approval of Superintendent Benton Yates is necessary.

HOFFMAN SAID that principals of the three high schools had received the constitution, passed only last week at Bentley and Franklin, but that beddon't know whether Yates office had the principals' recommendations yet.

In spite of the organizational problems, LINC has already been responsible for a successful project. A pop con-
