French Comedy Opens Season

French playwright George Feydeau's classic farce, "A Flea in Her Ear," will open the fifth season of Wayne State University's Hillyery Classic Theatre at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 10.

William Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" will open the following night, Thursday, at 8:30 p.m.

The two comedies inaugurate a five-month repertory program which will run weekly through May 26 except the week of March 27, when the theatre will be dark.

"A Flea in Her Ear" will also be performed Friday and Saturday nights of the first week while the Shakespeare comedy will be repeated at 2:30 Saturday matinee.

A third play, Shakespeare's "Hamlet," will be added the second week, on Wednesday, Jan. 17. Later openings include John Whiting's "The Devils" in February and Jean Anouilh's "Becket" in March.

All the plays are performed by a company of 36 advanced theatre students selected in national competition for drama fellowships. The Hillyery played to more than 61,000 persons last year, about 80 per cent of the theatre capacity.

The new season's opener by Feydeau is one of the best known plays of the Twentieth Century.

French playwright, considered the greatest comedy writer in his country since Moliere, although new to the English-speaking stage, the play has been a great success in the English National Theatre and is typical of Feydeau's precision and comic technique.

Leading roles will be played by Richard Tutor, Pat Ryan, Kay Jay, David Adamson, Dave Davis and Jeffrey Tambor. The play is directed by Richard D. Spear.

"Twelfth Night" is regarded as Shakespeare's supreme creation in romantic comedy. It contains some of his most memorable characters—Sir Toby Belch, a close kin of Falstaff; Viola, one of his most interesting women; the simpleton Sir Andrew Aguecheek and the renowned Puritan, Malvolio.

Tickets may be obtained at the Hillyery Theatre box office, Cass and Hancock (833-5151), and at all Hudson's and Grinnell's stores.
