

Crime Laws Become Early State, Local Issue

Crime legislation is occupying the attention of Michigan administrators and legislators as the 1968 lawmaking and political year begins.

State Sen. George Kuhn, R-West Bloomfield, issued a public blast at the Romney administration's "obsession" with open housing legislation and "lack of adequate attention" to the crime problem.

Contacted by this newspaper for a reply, the press secretary for Gov. Romney said Lt. Gov. Milliken said no letter had been sent to Kuhn yet, but the spokesman added that the administration's position would be spelled out in the forthcoming "State of the State" message.

Sen. Kuhn, who represents Livonia, Plymouth and Farmington, renewed his bid for a "stop and frisk law," contending that it could cut street crime by half.

Meanwhile, however, State Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said the Dearborn City Council was "hasty" in passing a "stop and frisk" ordinance last week. "The issue will be decided by the Supreme Court in a matter of weeks, and I think it's premature and a little presumptuous for anyone else to pass a stop-and-frisk measure now," said Kelley, adding that he feels policemen, under proper circumstances, already have stop-and-frisk authority.

Kuhn predicted that if the Supreme Court rules favorably on the constitutionality of stop-and-frisk, Michigan's Legislature will pass such a bill in 1968.

and a criminal usury law (charging more than 25 per cent an interest).

The Governor's 57-member commission proposed legalized wire-tapping (through court order, good for 30 days), a federal law requiring that gun sellers notify the chief law enforcement officer in the buyers' home state (aimed at Michigan residents' purchases of guns in Ohio); a ban on military-type firearms (bazooka and machine gun); and the appointment rather than the election of judges to fill vacancies.

Snowmobiles Banned In Wayne Co. Parks

The operation of snowmobiles has been banned in all Wayne County Parks.

The Wayne County Road Commission took action after receiving a staff recommendation that stated:

"It is the considered opinion of the staff that snowmobiling, while it could be a highly desirable recreation, would not be an activity compatible with the many other winter recreation uses of the parks."

Carroll L. Porter, Park Superintendent, told the Commission that the sheriff's office agrees with his recommendation and has offered to help enforce the ban.

Porter said his office is making a survey to determine if a regulated area can be set aside in the parks to permit a controlled and orderly use of the winter sports-vehicles.

"We have received many requests for permission to operate snowmobiles in the parks," Porter said. "Our survey may show a definite need for an area restricted to this form of recreation."
