

Giant Ferry Capsizes In 125-Mile Typhoon

WELLINGTON, N.Z.—One of the world's largest ferries, carrying 744 persons, sank in 125-mile-per hour typhoon winds that smashed New Zealand's largest city.

Police reported more than 57 bodies have been recovered or washed ashore from the sinking of the 9,110-ton ferry Wahine. More than 100 survivors were hospitalized, and rescue officials estimated that another 100 were missing.

The 19-month-old vessel with 614 passengers and 130 crewmen aboard had come to Lyttelton on the south shore when it struck a reef just outside the harbor. The ferry floundered for hours and then capsized.

WORLD ROUNDUP

SAIGON—With U.S. pressure being exerted in the background, President Nguyen Van Thieu has asked legislative approval for a general mobilization to meet the Communist threat in Vietnam.

An extensive mobilization and increased South Vietnamese fighting ability would put Thieu in a better position to ward off any move towards formation of a coalition government with the Communists.

LONDON—Britain's Labor Government has presented its plans for a tougher civil rights law intended to assure equal treatment in housing, jobs, and public accommodations but placing emphasis on concession to obtain compliance.

The new bill, which Parliament will debate next week, replaces a less stringent measure enacted in 1965 and will extend the ban on discrimination to the sale or rental of housing.

A familiar sight in Britain are placards in shops saying "white tenants only" or "no colored." The bill will outlaw these advertisements but will not extend to all forms of housing.

TOKYO—The Viet Cong has charged that two of its leaders were "murdered" in Saigon in January and threatened to retaliate for any future killings with "appropriate measures" against its U.S. and South Vietnamese prisoners.

BUENOS AIRES—A singer here spent 12 hours in police custody for singing the words of a "tango." A police patrol captured the night club during the performance and heard the singer warble "arrest me Sergeant and put me in chains."

That's the way the song goes, but the police thought the singer was trying to be a wise guy and taunted him away.

RICCIONE, Italy—A young Italian electronics student has invented a cheap and portable jamming device that will silence your neighbor's television when it gets too noisy.

The device went on display at a hobbies exhibition with a sign warning that to use it is to violate an Italian law.

WARSAW—Defense Minister Marian Spychalski, 62, was nominated to become the new president of Poland in the midst of political turmoil that apparently included a power struggle in the Communist Party.

Spychalski was virtually assured election by the Parliament to succeed the nearly blind and ailing President Edward Ochab. Such a step would remove Spychalski from any active political role. The presidency is a largely ceremonial position.
