

Lakers Knot NBA Final With Boston

LOS ANGELES --It's back to Los Angeles Thursday night for game six in the finals of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

On the outcome could rest the title, assuming that Tuesday night's winner in Boston can triumph again.

The series was tied at 2-2 when the teams played in Boston after the Lakers clipped the Celtics, 118-105, Sunday.

Despite the victory, the Lakers were worried. Star guard Jerry West, who scored 30 points, suffered an injured ankle when he collided with Boston's John Havlicek.

The Lakers led all the way.

Cougars Get Even At Home

Happy are the Detroit Cougars. They're 2-0 at home (against an 0-2 record on the road) and their next three games are booked at Tiger Stadium.

The Cougars had little trouble with Toronto, selling the Falcons, 6-1, in their debut at the Tiger ball park.

A small crowd of 3,329 showed up in 39-degree weather to see the Cougars boom back after Toronto had taken a 1-0 lead at 9:30 of the first half.

Willie Hunter knotted the score for Detroit, then Lars Heinemann broke the game wide open by counting four times, twice on penalty shots, when Detroit was awarded free kicks with only the rival goalie between the boiler and the net.

Jorgen Christensen accounted for the sixth Detroit goal. The Cougars will entertain Washington next Tuesday starting at 8 p.m.
