State Lists 'Safe' Garden Pesticides

"Use the safest pesticides available, and be sure to read and heed the labels on their containers."

That is the pointed appeal of Conservation Director Ralph A. MacMillan to Michigan homeowners who are planning to apply commercial chemicals this spring to control pest and weed problems around their homes and gardens.

He particularly urges homeowners to avoid DDT and some other "hard" or persistent pesticides which have a serious long-term impact on wildlife, soil organisms, and water purity. Others on the Conservation Department's "black list" include Dieldrin, Aldrin, Endrin, Chlordane, Lindane, and Heptachlor.

EVEN WITH safer, shorter-lived pesticides, homeowners can't be too careful. "All pesticides are poisons," he explains, "and they must be used with care and all directions on their labels should be followed to a 'T'."

Before the U.S. Department of Agriculture allows a pesticide to be registered for sale, its manufacturer must show proof that the chemical, used at dosages recommended on the label, will kill the pests listed.

On this point, MacMillan notes: "If the labels say to use one tablespoon in a gallon of water, you shouldn't use two. Excessive amounts will be wasteful and could cause added dangers to other organisms. On the other hand, under-dosages may not do the job." Michigan's conservation director sums up his "read it and heed it" warning this way: "Safety precautions are listed on each label for a purpose. You should pay strict attention to them—for your own safety, for the good of others, and for the safety on non-target birds, fish, and animals."

The Conservation Department, hoping to turn the tide on pesticide pollution and spearhead steps toward a cleaner environment, offers the following list of some safer pesticides and herbicides for recommended home and garden use:

1. METHOXYCHLOR---for controlling household flies, ticks, leaf hoppers, Japanese beetles, army worms, codling moths, spittlebugs, scale (crawlers), and many others.
2. SEVIN (also called CARBARYL)---for controlling aphids, codling moths, scales, leaf hoppers, army worms, spittlebugs, thrips, grasshoppers, stink bugs, cucumber beetles, and many others, including ticks, fleas, and mites on dogs and cats.

3. MALATHION---for controlling aphids, mites, scales, flies, leaf miners, loopers, army worms, grasshoppers, lice, ticks, ants, spiders, mosquitoes, and many others.

4. FYRETHIN---for controlling mosquitoes, flies, aphids, mites, beetles, loopers, lice, and many others.

5. ROTENONE---for controlling beetles, weevils, slugs, mosquitoes, thrips, fleas, lice, and many others.

6. NALED OR DIBROM---for controlling loopers, mites, aphids, houseflies, army worms, leaf miners, cutworms, fruit flies, thrips, mosquitoes, gnats, grasshoppers, and many others.

7. 2, 4-D---a commonly used, safe herbicide which will handle most weed problems. Check the label to make sure the chemical is recommended for your weed situation.

8. DALAPON---a herbicide used to kill grasses.

9. 2, 4, 5-T---for eradicating brush and other woody plants. This is a more powerful herbicide than some of the others and should be carefully used according to the label instructions. Keep away from streams and other surface water.

While there are other safe chemicals for special uses, those listed here should cover many of the householder's needs around the home and garden.

Some of the other "soft" pesticides are extremely dangerous to use and should never be applied except by trained specialists who use special equipment. These include parathion, TEPP, thimol, and isomik. A drop of temik in the eye could be fatal.
