

Warns Of Fake Hospital Survey

An imposter operating out of the Farmington area is conducting a telephone survey to obtain information which could possibly be used later to commit a criminal act.

The imposter claims to be doing research for the new Providence Hospital of Southfield. Herman J. Glass, assistant administrator at Providence, says the imposter is using the hospital's name illegally and warns area residents to be alert since the man is very convincing.

Anyone receiving a phone call from a man claiming to be doing research for Providence Hospital should contact the police immediately, especially if questioned about the number of teenage daughters at home.

Find Lost Keepsake

KEEPSAKE WALLET: Somebody losing a wallet in the Farmington area recently lost more than the nominal amount of money found therein.

Contained inside was an old picture dating back to the mid-thirties of two ladies—one sitting, the other standing. Cars parked in the street in the background were 1925 and '36 models. The picture is probably a keepsake of great sentimental value to the owner.

Discovering the discarded wallet was James Conklin, of 32905 Hazgrove Ct., Farmington Township, who would have returned it to the owner immediately except the wallet did not contain any identification. It was found on 13 Mile Rd. near Orchard Lake Rd.

The owner may retrieve his keepsake by calling the Conklins at 526-5583.
