

Organize Ford Stamp Committee

Greenfield Village officials currently planning the July 30 Henry Ford Stamp official first day of issue ceremonies, have named William V. Petreus, chairman of a Citizens Advisory Committee, Petreus, an active civic leader in Dearborn for two decades, will head a committee responsible for coordinating the volunteer activities of civic groups, stamp collectors and interested individuals. The Henry Ford Stamp, number 12 in the U.S. Post Office Department's "prominent American series," will be issued from Greenfield Village after appropriate ceremonies. July 30 was selected as the official first day of issue to mark the 105th anniversary of Mr. Ford's birth. The home in which he was born and grew up is located in Greenfield Village. The 12 cent stamp will carry the Greenfield Village Station postmark on that day.

Berkeley's Art
At Ann Arbor

ANN ARBOR -- Another exhibition in a series devoted to circulating art from major American university collections will open at the University of Michigan Museum of Art on Sunday and run through July 7.

This exhibition, from the University of California at Berkeley, is circulating throughout the United States under the sponsorship of the American Federation of Arts. Peter Selz, director of the University Art Museum at Berkeley, writes in the introduction of the catalog which accompanies the exhibition:

"OUR COLLECTION of contemporary art reflects an attempt to be broad in scope, and to identify the good rather than to glorify the fashionable."

With the exception of Joan Miro's "Composition" of 1937, all the paintings in the present grouping date from the conclusion of World War II. The exhibition is limited to paintings.

The University of California Art Museum collection is particularly strong in paintings by the COBRA group, that movement which stressed spontaneous action by the artist and a highly personal imagery, and formed a significant European counterpart to abstract expressionism.

BERKELEY NOW has the largest public collection in the U.S. of works by the Danish artist Asger Jorn and two of Jorn's paintings are included in the exhibition.

Abstract expressionism is represented by the work of some of its finest artists, including Willem de Kooning, Sam Francis, Conrad Marca-Relli, and Theodoros Stamos.

The new concern with the human figure and the urban landscape is exemplified in works by Robert Rauschenberg, Roy De Forest, and James Gill.

Center Theatre
Offers 'Barefoot'

The final production of Center Theatre's ninth season will be "Barefoot in the Park," Neil Simon's comedy of marital errors between a conservative husband and his non-conforming bride.

"Barefoot" will be presented June 10, 16, 19, 22 and 23 at 8:30 p.m. (7:30 on Sundays) in the Dr. Roy Theatre in the Jewish Community Center, Meyers at Curtis, Detroit. Tickets are $2 and $1 for students.

Rug Hookers
At 'Village'

Forty-five rug hookers will display their talent and crafts Sunday, June 9 at Greenfield Village during an old-fashioned rug hooking bee.

The hookers, all students of Mrs. Helen Talbot of Royal Oak and Robert Kaiser of the Greenfield Village crafts department, will compete for honors in geometric, oriental, floral, pictorial or miscellaneous classifications.

Dr. Ruth M. Brenner of Manassas, Pa., will discuss the therapeutic benefits of rug hooking in a program at 1 p.m. The rug hooking bee and exhibit will continue from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and visitors to the Village will have the opportunity to view the students at work.

Totes Supplement

If the currently fashionable mini-bag leaves you wondering where to store all the usual handbag trappings, one long-time designer of purses has the answer. Own a mini and a tote too. To insure smartness, Gretchen of Greek Originals, New York, styles the tiny purses and the large one to match. For spring, they're made up in assorted colors of patents.

Basie's Beat Tops
Meadow Brook Music Fair

Count Basie, who will conduct his orchestra as top-billing entertainment at Oakland University's Meadow Brook Music Fair, is probably the most honored musician of our time.

The Count, his rhythmic piano and big-band sound will be featured in concert at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, June 15, in the Howard C. Baldwin Memorial Pavilion. He is the headline of the first annual fair, which will be held June 14-16 as a benefit for the university's performing arts.

He was one of the earliest jazz musicians to perform in New York's Carnegie Hall, made a number of global tours in addition to countless treks across the United States, was featured in five Hollywood films, and played command performances before Queen Elizabeth and President Kennedy.

The Basie concert will be one of eight concerts which will span two generations and many musical tastes at the Meadow Brook Fair. The complete lineup (all slated for the Baldwin Pavilion on campus) is as follows:

FRIDAY
3 p.m. -- Teen hard rock clash, featuring The Thyme, The Rationals, The Pack, and The Plain Brown Wrapper.
8:30 p.m. -- Preservation Hall Jazz Band from New Orleans.

SATURDAY
2:30 p.m. -- International Folk Dance Troupe.
3:30 p.m. -- Highland Dancers.
8:30 p.m. -- Count Basie and His Orchestra.

SUNDAY
2:30 p.m. -- General Motors Chorus.
4:30 p.m. -- Sweet Adelines song festival.
7 p.m. -- Folk Festival (bring your own guitar).

Admission to the festival grounds and to all concerts except those of Count Basie and Preservation Hall are free. Tickets for these two concerts ($2 for lawn and $3 for pavilion seats) may be bought at the gate.

or in advance through the Community Relations Office, Rochester, Mich. 48063. Tickets also are available at Hudson's and Grinnell's.

Hudson Mills Park
Has Nature Trail

Now is an excellent time to take a nature hike along Acorn Nature Trail in Hudson Mills Metropolitan Park on Territorial Rd.

So says William F. Hopkins, chief naturalist for the Hudson Mills Metropolitan Park Authority, who said the circular trail is 3/4 mile in length and starts about 1/4 mile from the south parking lot in the 600-acre park.

Entering the trail you will first find a sparsely wooded area at the edge of a busy street, then step into a fine stand of mixed hardwoods in which there is a variety of native trees, including oak, maple, junberry and flowering dogwood.

After following the east bank of the river for a short distance, the trail bends first to the east and then to the north across an old field, and finally completes its circuit by passing through an open oak woods. Acorn Trail is a favorite with migrating songbirds. One of the year-around birds residing in the area is the spectacular ruffed grouse that explodes with whirring wings when started.

"Deer are occasionally seen on the trail by the quiet walker. However, more common are chipmunks and squirrels."

Yiddish Folk Songs Offered

Shifra Lerer, Latin American singer, will offer a program of Hebrew-Yiddish music at the Yom Ha-Atzmaut Festival Saturday, June 15 at 8:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Labor Zionist Institute, 19161 Schaefer, Detroit.

She will be accompanied by Bella Goldberg, pianist, Judge Nathan J. Kaufman, of Circuit Court, will be the guest speaker.

Admission is free and refreshments will be served. Sponsors are the Farband-Labor Zionist Order and the Jewish National Fund.

In honoring Israel's 20th birthday, all Farband-LZO branches have resolved to plant as many trees as possible in Modin, Israel.

Miss Lerer was born in Buenos Aires, graduated from the Spanish College, studied Yiddish in the Boruchov school, and also attended the Dramatic School of the world famous theater "Colón."

She plays and sings her hearty folk songs in Yiddish, Hebrew and Spanish with great emotion.
