COG Draws Up Priorities

By TIM RICHARD

After getting only scattered suggestions from member governments, the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (COG) has made its own list of priority items.

Itst of priority items.

COO's staff is drawing up studies and committee structures on regional school and municipal problems with the approval of the executive board and the General Assembly.

COO, whose members include the six southeastern Michigan county governments, school districts, cities, townships and villages, had asked its constituents several months ago for suggestions, got only 40 responses, and found no consensus,

ROBERT FARLEY, assistant to COG Saccutive Director E. Robert Turner, outlined 10 areas of work for the new regional agency in an interview with the Observer Newspapers:

Educational requirements and financing.
 Comprehensive health

2. Comprehensive health planning and coordination. "This has been thrust at us by dedral laws" - every metro-politan area must have a health planning agency."

3. Public safety coordination. COG will study possibilities coordinating training and in-service training, mutual aid and crime labs.

Five From NFH

North Farmington High School's work day netted scholarships for five students this year. Those receiving aid are Lois Cherry, Diana Rolls, Randy Harp, Tom Huber and Namo Peck. Several hundred workers spent a Saturday working throughout the area in order scholarships. The annual project is sponsored by the student council.

6. Building code uniformity throughout the region. This might also even involve training programs for building inspectors to lead to uniformity of enforcement.

7. Data processing.

8. Federal and state assistance for members. With a great variety of programs and the difficulty of making application, COG sees itself as a potential intermediary with the federal bureaucracy.

9. Joint purchasing pro-grams.

10. Coordinator of regional anti-poverty programs. The Metropolitan Fund was working in this area, but the work dropped off when a key man left.

A VOLUNTARY organization, COG was established early this year, It succeeds the former Supervisors Inter-County Committee and is parent organization of the Transportation and Land Use Detroit Metropolitan Regional Study (TALUS).
