Journalism Class Marks Newspaper Week
National Newspaper Week was observed by the Farmington High Journalism class October 1-8. Through the cooperation of the school librarian, the class acquired Blue and Whites as far back as 1940, which were displayed in scrapbooks in the library show-case.

Mr. Peel, the new journalism teacher, contributed newspapers dating back to 1898. The main story covered in these papers was the sinking of the Titanic.

Fosters telling of the services your newspaper offers were made by the class and displayed in the cafeteria window and on the study hall bulletin board.

Waterfowl Hunters Can Get Timables

Waterfowl hunters wanting to know when they may begin firing in the morning and when they must stop at night can get time-table maps from any district or regional office of the conservation department.

Offices are located at Plainwell, Jackson, Loyal City, Detroit (Oranah), Gladwin, Baldwin, Traverse City, Roscommon, Mio, Gaylord, Newberry, Marquette, Escanaba, Crystal Falls and Baraga.

In the upper peninsula, hunters can begin shooting at noon on October 13 while below the Straits shooting time is 10:40 a.m. October 15. The first day closing hours in the upper peninsula range from 3:55 p.m. in a small eastern strip to 8:19 p.m. in the west end and in the lower peninsula, closing time ranges from 4:48 p.m. to 5:04 p.m.

After the first day, however, the upper peninsula daily hunting period ranges from 6:15 a.m. to 4:55 p.m. on October 14 in the eastern strip to 7:16 a.m. to 4:39 p.m. on November 16 in the western section.

Following the first day in the lower peninsula, the daily hunting period ranges from 8:13 a.m. to 4:48 p.m. on October 16 in an eastern strip to 7:03 a.m. to 4:27 p.m. on November 16 in a western strip.

Maps show counties in which Sunday hunting bans exist and in which bears are protected.

Trout Plants Pass Million Mark

As state trout planting crews begin switching primarily to lake releases, the conservation department reports 1,022,000 legal-size trout have been stocked so far this year.

In 1949, planting crews released 1,063,000 "keepers" in Michigan waters. As many if not more may be released when 1950 plantings are finished. Shortages of certain fish food supplies and increased costs of those foods available have made it advisable for fish hatcheries to reduce carryover of legal-size trout. Fishery crews will continue rain-bow plantings on those streams open to fall fishing as well as regular fall lake releases.

Rainbow trout still head the list with 347,000, seven inches or better, distributed mostly to designated trout lakes and streams. Another 342,000 brook, 275,000 brown, 145,000 brook and 59,000 lake trout. Better than 50 per cent of the 271,000 planted in the upper peninsula were brook trout. Approximately 99,000 of the 157,000 released in the southern third of the state, were rainbow.

Little or no natural reproduction in many lakes and streams necessitates trout planting to provide even a fair degree of trout fishing, according to the department's fish division.
