Fooled the pheasant-codling hunters this year. We lured our weed patch into a lawn and if any pheasant finds a place to try and hide here he's a phantom. Like our neighbors in other parts of Farmington township, we hope to keep our children, dogs, and windows free of bullet holes this year. And since we don't care for the taste of pheasant as much as the thrill of living, guess we'll just stay inside and do our shooting with a dart gun at a big round target.

Fall's painted scene has been wondrous this year, and trees rapidly are showing their autumn forms. Robert Watwood of 21215 Middlebelt, noticed her little laughter-lighted at the beauty of a crimson-leaved tree in their yard. She asked several year-old Barb what time of the year she liked a tree best and the child replied, "Oh, Christmas, I guess!"

Thanksgiving and Christmas, too, will probably find the White Eckert family of 23095 1st Street still with us. They're finding the housing situation just as tough around Lapeer and since Mr. Eckert's sales territory has been extended they've decided they might as well stay right around here. Her sister, Mrs. George Lasley of Geneva Street in Pontiac, visited the Eckerts last week and her parents, next door, Mr. and Mrs. James Fahzyl. Of course, along to come nine-month old Julie and 18-month-old Janine.

Their son-in-law's death has saddened the hearts of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Elliot, 21129 Roosevelt, this fall. James Hamilton left his wife of 17 years, Katherine, three children, and his home Tuesday, October 10, and his funeral was last Friday. He also left his father, Louis Hamilton, and sister, Mrs. Herbert DeArmer, of Detroit.

Mr. Hamilton had been in good health for several months but had been able to continue his work. He was in good spirits before a sudden serious attack Sunday, October 8. The doctor, who treated for eternity, and philosophy about the loss of our loved ones, to a happier land, it's still a hard fact to accept that, though it may be today, they are gone tomorrow.

A "Sunshine" committee, part of our local P. T. A., is busy spreading cheer throughout the Clarenceville School District. If you know of a new mother, someone ill, or a death in your neighborhood, report it and you'll be helping these ladies do the good job they're hoping to do. Mrs. Edward Tooten, chairman of the committee and working with her are Mrs. Al Beard, Mrs. Herschel Childress, Mrs. Vera Hawley, Mrs. Albert Loeche, Mrs. Walter Mott, Mrs. Fred Meeks, Sr., Mrs. R. H. Rich, Mrs. George Roberts, and Mrs. Axel Rutlip. And since this committee is in the card-making business, your fact by addressing all those Christmas cards you'll be mailing in just a couple months.

November 10, just three weeks away, is the date P. T. A. folks of the St. Paul's Lutheran Church School have set for their annual bazaar and big ham dinner. Plan to start your Christmas shopping there, for you can be sure you'll find just what you need. The mothers' club, 29 members strong, will be assisting the P. T. A. in this big project and Mrs. Frank Zant of 20245 Louisa is chairman of the affair. A new piano is the goal being sought by the school's scrap paper drive so don't burn that pile of papers.

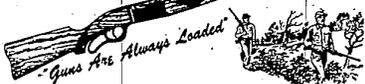

Though time spins by rapidly, each month is important for the Brownies of Troop 4 who elect new officers each month. Mrs. Rex Agar, leader of the troop, explains that in this way each member has the opportunity to learn and experience the responsibilities of an officer.

October's president is Jane Herin, Mary Lou Johnson is learning more, and Mary Lou is learning more to be a good secretary for the Scouts.

Mrs. Dallas Page's 11 Scouts in Troop 6 are enjoying a 16 week swimming course at the High School. Troop 8, led by Mrs. Jean Moore, have been busy making candy pads. Young Byron Gene Buzzo, three-month-old son of the Marvins Buzzos of 28920 1st Street, was welcomed into the world last week in Beloit, Wisconsin, according to his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Talmadge. A strong, chubby baby, his home and a family well without him, smiling by smiling would not be complete.

Gary Hasley is three years old today, October 19, and is having his little birthday in for a taste of his birthday cake this afternoon. Our first glimpse, across the street, of Gary when he moved with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hasley into their home at 28920 Scotten, was of a smiling baby standing in his crib before a window, snapping

The Band Booster Bake Sale, which was held at Edison in Redford Saturday was very successful. They were able to purchase uniforms for band uniforms and supplies. Mr. and Mrs. James White, who have been living at the home of Mrs. White's mother, Mrs. Mary Weyer, have moved to their new home on Warner Street in Detroit. Mrs. William Nicholas was home from Michigan State College last week end.

By Mrs. NORMAN MOORE 21719 Jefferson, Phone 2762-J No, the war hasn't reached the outskirts of Farmington — only the many hunters trying for that one bird they can brag about. Many are turning to this sport each year, so let's be careful, boys, and make sure it's a bird and not the feathers on one of our hats. Jim Manning of Jefferson Street spent opening day hunting in Bad Axe. Don McAskin was among the ones who got his pheasant the first day. Mrs. Ed Mather of Oakland Avenue had a House of Stuart demonstration on Friday afternoon. Twelve ladies attended and after the demonstration a lunch was served. The Ernest Moores of Jefferson Street and the Ross Moores of Beatrice Street, Livonia, spent Sunday in Marine City. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moore of Romulus celebrated their 11th wedding anniversary on October 12. Mrs. Moore is the daughter of the Elmer Lamberts of Milburn Street. Mrs. Ross Moore is on the injured list this week as he received two broken and one badly bruised toes in an accident at work.

Fall is really here with nature making its beautiful scenes along the highway. The trees have put on their fall wardrobe of colorful leaves while others are dropping theirs on the ground. It's nice to have these pictures, but it's hectic to think of the job it gives, namely raking leaves. To the smaller children it's fun to rake those leaves in order to build that important bump on to pile them high and pretend it's a lake. But to their Dads it's the year's unwelcome task. Mr. and Mrs. Don Vance and daughter Diane, along with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mitchell and son Larry, spent the week end in Port Huron at the home of Mrs. Vance's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. Ingram.
