Meadowbrook Murmurs

Most effective little Halloween spook we've seen this year is Su Lynn McCague of 25133 Scotten Street. Excuse us, maybe that's spelled "Su Lin," since she's a Chinese Pekinese. How it did our hearts go to her hairdressing and stunning our big dog Happy off her pretty lawn. Happy, who considers herself as vicious as she even snaps at the tires that carry away her beloved master each morning.

Su Lin, though a plump in size, is afraid of no one, not even the monster - sized cello that lives next door. Add besides being a good watch dog, she's a fine butter at the door, bringing her mistress from the basement or backyard before the doorbell has a chance. One morning, however, her reputation took a beating with Mrs. McCague making several trips to the door and no visitors. So when their neighbor, Mr. Elliott, approached the door, he also heard "Su Lin, are you calling me to the door for a good reason?" Then a red-faced Mr. M. heard, "No, Mrs. McCague, it's just that you're calling me to the door for a good reason?"

Frou in his favorite cowboy attire and scary in a black mask, Robert Swartworth, age six, delivered invitations for his Halloween party personally and demanded that the guests be ready to go about 15 youngsters chose, instead of ringing door-bells Tuesday evening, to toast hot dogs at the big fireplace in "Rob's" back yard recreation room at 25301 Scotten. Wildes, clowns, monkeys and ghosts were among the guests there. Later appeared Sandra and Larry Johnson, Paul Turner, Richard Frederick, Paul Cronholm, Tommy Hawley, Carol John and George Dennis, Sonny and Rachel Hesse, Jeff LaFollette, Chubby and Nancy Bracken, and Deanna Eckert.

All the neighbors were laughing in a nearby community last week when a very original adult Halloween party took place. Guests were invited to the back of the house, found entrance through a window after climbing a high ladder. An obliging officer from the police department appeared just the right time "arrested" a few of the guests as they were "breaking in".
But the best joke of all was of the hostess herself. Friend husband, some friends had set up a recording machine which he played back for the entertainment of all guests later in the party. It recorded and played back tales of hysterical laughter. The guests who had their guests climbed through the window.

It was a big surprise, too, when Joseph Cauffiel found his living room full of guests when he had only turned his back for a minute.
But it took a lot of planning and whispering plans for his wife and son, Randall, who had planned the birthday party. October 21 was another celebration, their eleventh wedding anniversary, and this week end relatives at their home on Last Street will be saying "Happy Birthdays" to Mrs. Cauffiel, only she knows about it and will be cooking the dinner. Randall, age 9, bagged his first squirrel to celebrate his first hunting season this fall. The Cauffiels have gone north of Alpena the past two week ends for partridge hunting.

A pretty wedding in Linden, Michigan, this week end will include in the list of guests Mr. and Mrs.
George Buchanan of 29230 Eight Mile Road. The bride, Sally Baras, is the daughter of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Baras. The groom is Robert Nafack. Mr. and Mrs. George Reynolds of Detroit will spend the week end and guests of the Buchanans and will also attend the wedding.

Another bride-to-be is Joyce Brumelle, daughter of the Armand Brumelles, 29322 Edgewood. Miss Brumelle has a lovely "sparkler" from Harold Hopkins of Lakeview Street in Farmington. And since Uncle Sam also has his eye on Harold, the wedding date may soon be set.

Right after they were married 3 years ago December 16, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Earle built themselves their first home. Three years later they moved to their home at 28010 Eight Mile Road, which they finished, and a few years ago they got ambitious again and built themselves a cottage just 20 minutes ride from home, on Lower Pettibone Lake near Milford. Now, because they enjoy their summers and occasional week ends at the lake so much, they're talking about getting out the hammer and saw again.
They'd like to build a permanent home there, since they have five vacant lots and still plenty of ambition.

Mrs. Earle entertained 18 members of the Clarenceville Mothers club last Wednesday. An Annual of the organization, she stated that their present project is the big bazaar at the school December 8.
Have you got that on your calendar?

The Lothar Pounders were Detroit visitors on Sunday.

Mr. Fred Durfee died at St. Joseph Hospital in Pontiac on Tuesday afternoon. Services were held from the Casteline Funeral Home on Friday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. with burial in Novi Cemetery.

Mrs. Durfee was 82 years old and had served as supervisor of Novi Township for 15 years. He was a member of the East Novi Board of Education, secretary of the Novi Bural Association, and a life member of Northville Lodge F. & A. M.
No. 156. He was born August 9, 1868, at Plymouth, and in 1896 he married Jessie Winslow-West, who died in 1903. Surviving are his wife, Irene R. Perry of Novi, whom he married in 1910, and three children, Genevieve, at home, a son Donald of Farmington, and Mrs.
Glen Smith of Decker. A sister, Mrs. P. E. Mills of Lansing and five grandchildren also survive.

Man Shapes Lady's Back For $25.00

Something new happens every day in our fair city. Now there's a man who will reshape your back for $25.00. Mrs. Lillian Bellum of Elm Street asserts that this gentleman does a thorough job and highly recommends his services.

The gentleman in question answers to the name of Les McGlock-lin. He feels that his unusual offer will better acquaint him with housewives. And, therefore, for the next six days he will gladly reshape any lady's chair back and seat (in fact the whole chair) for as low as $25.00.

Mr. McGlocklin, of Farmington Upholstery, 32420 Eight Mile Road West, will make no financial profit on this work - his sole endeavor is to acquaint the residents of our city with his meticulous, thorough upholstering service at (pardon the expression) dirt cheap prices.

You can't go wrong, girls. Get your back reshaped today. Re-
