With warm weather on the way, their return trip to Michigan is being dreamed about by Mrs. John Clark of 29023 Eight Mile Road and her daughters, Patty, Shirley and Linda. Linda is photo-shy at present, but she is quite quiet since they left in early December to visit at the Florida home of Mrs. Clark's parents. Mrs. Clark found the Florida sun a healing wonder and she is now able to walk about like herself again. She was badly handicapped an arm and leg after a fall in the snow last month. They after "dust riding along" with a friend who didn't want to go to Canada. A broken pelvis, hip and arm kept her hospitalized all summer long, so her return home now is extra-long-awaited.

Mr. Clark's son, Michael, Bay after "dust riding along" with a friend who didn't want to go to Canada. A broken pelvis, hip and arm kept her hospitalized all summer long, so her return home now is extra-long-awaited.

Leaving for California Tuesday, regrettably since our new weather is just starting, are Logan and Eddie, son and daughter of Mrs. Verna Dresden Street. Doctor's orders, however, and Logan is train-bound for the home of Mrs. Verna's foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Scott of LaVern, near Los Angeles. He will remain there until he is able to return to his studies at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut, where his is a junior.

Recent week end visitors to Michigan were Sgt. and Mrs. John W. Wooley, of Ogallala, North Carolina. Paul, who is a senior teletype operator and a veteran of the last war, finds an occasional trip home very good for his health. So the Wooleys purchased a car last time they were in the Motor City and promised her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bury of List Street, that they'd be home again soon.

The Hand Boosters are looking busy this week preparing and selling tickets for their Spring Fair, which will take over the Clarenceville gym Friday evening, May 11. That's next week and keep it in mind for there will be lots of prizes as well as many free samples for everyone. Mrs. Mario Meyer says so, and since she is chairman of the affair she should know. A cooking demonstration by a local firm, a baked goods sale, and a program will also insure that tickets will bring double their price.

Rehearsals for the annual Meadowbrook Heights all this week. Tuesday afternoon it was a plastic party at the home of Mrs. Joe Markell, 25822 West Eight Mile Road, and Thursday evening the neighbors were heading for Mrs. Richard Vesey's on Dresden for another demonstration. Monday afternoon it was a surprise birthday affair, and the lady with the arched eyebrows was Mrs. Al Cronholm of Dresden Street. In on the fun were next-door neighbors Mrs. George Ferris, Mrs. John Stolliker, Mrs. Dennis, Mrs. Richard Vesey, Mrs. Carlyle Haiglett and Mrs. Ted La Follette, who dropped in for coffee and a visit at their own.

Mrs. Cronholm was a newcomer to Dresden Street just a year ago and you can see she has had a warm welcome.

Another birthday party Wednesday was for a little girl who was one, Sharon Allia Schuklins. Her parents, Richard and Marjorie Schuklins, served birthday cake and ice cream at their 2110 Middle home. Wednesday evening to her grandmas, Mrs. Melinda Schuklins, her Grandpa and Grandma (Emmett) Houghton, uncle and auntie, Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Houghton, Jr., and neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Hawley and children, who are also in love with smiling little Sharon. Almost-eleven-year-old Sharon Hawley is Sharon's daily visitor and hopes to be soon in line for baby-sitting, we'll bet.

Our appreciation of the confidence and loyalty of old and respected families, through the years, made us feel it was an obligation to personally conduct each and every funeral of this establishment for over 30 years.
