LOCAL NEWS

Miss Nettie Dickerson entertained the members of the graduating class of the local high school at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Dickerson, last Tuesday evening. The evening was spent socially by the class membership and plans talked over for the numerous graduation affairs and festivities. A pleasant evening is reported by all.

See Cook & Co. for dainty styles in Summer dress goods.

E. S. and James Grace received a telephone call last Monday evening announcing that their brother, Milton, had had the misfortune to get his hand caught in a saw mill which he was operating in Redford, completely severing the front finger on the left hand. Both brothers immediately left for Redford and rendered necessary assistance. The hand was badly lacerated, but it is believed and hoped that under the care of physicians, it will heal up nicely, and that the injured man will suffer nothing more than the loss of the finger.

A band of gypsies, traveling in nine wagons, have been camping near Clarenceville for several days past, and have been making visits to all of the nearby towns. Redford heard from them as did Farmington and Clarenceville. They were reported as moving westward Tuesday afternoon, and had passed through Farmington. The aggregation is the same as came through here last year.

MAKE YOUR MONEY EARN GOOD PROFIT

Five Hundred Homes Now Needed in Royal Oak

Why will you let your money lie in the bank at 3 or 4 per cent when you can build houses in Royal Oak and rent or sell them at a big profit?

Five hundred houses are needed at once. The Royal Oak real estate agencies are swamped with applicants for homes—and there is not a vacant house, new or old, to be had in the town. Out of 390 residents interviewed, 359 own their own homes.

Many Ford auto factory employees already live in Royal Oak and hundreds want to make homes there because of the short quick ride from the factory to the village. Those Ford men who live in Detroit must spend 40 minutes or more to get from the factory to their homes. But those who live in Royal Oak can get home in ten minutes. Hence the rush to Royal Oak. Think what splendid tenants $5,000 Ford employees earning $5 or more a day will supply, and bring your money to Royal Oak right now for investment.

Detroit is growing and is bound to keep on growing. As it grows so must Royal Oak grow. Before long there'll be a subway out Woodward avenue. Think what that will do to Royal Oak property values.

Remember, Royal Oak has about doubled in population in the past three years. The need of the hour is more men with money to help us house the people who are crowding into the town and its environs.

The Men's Association of Royal Oak, an organization of too business and professional men and citizens, who see the need, urges and advises you to come to Royal Oak today, look over the ground and see if you don't recognize the opportunity to put your money to work. Send your name and address and we will send you a free booklet of information. Write today to the Men's Association of Royal Oak, George B. Hartwick, Secretary.—Advertisement.

Card of Thanks

For the many kindnesses shown us at the time of our bereavement we wish to extend to our neighbors and friends our most sincere thanks.—J. G. Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Dennis.

THE SYMPATHETIC SARDINE.

He Belongs to the Small Family Himself, So He Helped the Skunk.

One summer afternoon the frog, the duck, the lamb and the skunk set out together for the circus. Down the dusty and sunny road they passed in single file. In due course they reached the village green. There in the middle of the green stood the circus tent as white as snow in the sun. They gave a shout of joy and ran forward.

The frog reached the doorkeeper first. As he had a greenback, of course he was passed right in.

The duck had a bill, so he followed the frog.

The lamb had four quarters. He trailed after the frog and duck.

But entrance was sternly refused the unlucky skunk. For he had only a scent with him and that was bad.

The skunk, cursing and growling in a low tone, turned away. He slouched slowly back along the road he had traveled so gayly a half hour before. Hundreds of animals, chattering and laughing about the delights of the circus, passed him unheeded by. But the sardine noticed his forlorn look and stopped.

"Hello, what's the matter?" said the sardine.

The skunk told him.

"Well, old fellow, I know just how you must feel about it," said the sardine sympathetically, "for I belong, you know, to the small family myself."

Then he laughed and slapped the disappointed skunk heartily on the back.

"But you are all right now," he cried. "Come back and go in with me. I've got a box."

Obedient Her Physician.

The old lady, says the Manchester Guardian, complained bitterly to her visitor that the east winds had kept her in the house for a week. "I thought that the wind had been westerly," said the visitor. "No, east, due east, and my doctor has cautioned me against running the slightest risk with east winds." The visitor left the house and faced a warm west wind. Glancing at the weathercock on the house opposite, he saw, however, that it steadfastly indicated east and that the severe gust never moved it.

Had it not been for this chance discovery that the weathercock had stuck, the faithful obeyer of doctor's orders would have been a life-long prisoner.

Many Kinds of Bananas.

There are over sixty known varieties of bananas, with at least as great a variety in character as in the different kinds of apples. Hawaii is said to have something over forty distinct varieties of the fruit, most of which have been introduced by the whites. Some of these are of extremely delicate and delicious flavor, while other kinds are used, if at all, only when cooked in various ways. There is scarcely a city house lot or country "kuleana" or homestead which does not have a clump or two of bananas, which grow with practically no care.

Few Old Maids in Japan.

According to the statistics of the Japanese blue book, there are very few Japanese women who do not marry. The majority of Japanese girls marry at twenty-one years of age. The men usually marry at twenty-six, but marriage at the age of fifteen is not unknown. Practically every Japanese man who does not join a Buddhist monastery marries. The old bachelor and the old maid are almost unknown in the land of the chrysanthemum.

Work of a Big Hotel.

About 21,000 persons enter one big New York hotel every day. This figure is based on an actual count made three years ago, when 19,000 persons entered in nineteen hours from 6 a. m. to 1 a. m. Employees were not included; they are 1,600 at ordinary times. Three thousand persons lunch there every day and 5,000 dine. To entertain these multitudes military precision and discipline must be maintained in all departments.

The Golden Mean.

Confucius, one of the world's great sages and the founder of China's dominant religion, always taught that the place to look for truth was in the "golden mean"—that is, that either side of an argument is apt to be so prejudiced that the truth will be found somewhere between the two opposing statements.

Reward Enough.

Father (angrily)—That appointment you forgot to keep today was the chance of a lifetime and would probably have made your career. But you prefer to waste your time playing golf.
Son (hurt)—Not waste, father; I won this cruet.—London Punch.

Passing of Frederick Fry

Frederick Fry passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. B. Follett in Watertown Saturday evening, March 21, 1914. Mr. Fry was ill but a few minutes and was in accord with the deceased life long desire that the death summons might be answered quickly.

The deceased was born in England March 27, 1835. He came to this country in 1858, settling in Fredonia, N. Y., but most of his life was spent in Michigan. He was married to Miss Theresa Culver March 25, 1858, she preceding him in death July 18, 1886. To this union three children were born, Chas. A. Fry of Grand, Mrs. E. B. Follett of Watertown, and Mrs. Lena Wright, the latter passing away in 1904. Besides the son and daughter, he leaves two brothers in Northville, eight grand children and three great grand children. Short services were held at the home of his daughter Thursday afternoon, Rev. E. J. Foote officiating and the remains taken Farmington Wednesday for burial. Rev. D. M. Ward officiating.

FOUR O'CLOCK COFFEE.

An Old Mississippi River Boat Custom That Still Survives.

One of the popular customs on board Mississippi river boats, which changing conditions have been unable to do away with, is the fixed habit of steamboat men for having their coffee promptly at 4 o'clock. The custom was probably taken from ocean vessels, where it is the middle of a cup of tea in the middle of the afternoon. River men drink much stronger beverage than pink tea, and the black coffee on steamboats is known all over the country.

The 4 o'clock coffee on a steamboat is the center of social life of the boat, and when the captain says to the mate, "Have you had your coffee?" all class distinctions are dropped, for back in the cookhouse it is man to man.

red-hot stove brazier around the kitchen table, where the records of the Robert E. Lee and the Natchez are compared with those of the first Kate Adams or some other famous boat. The records of the performances of famous steamboats are carried in the heads of young roof watchmen and rub pilots just the same as the battling averages of Ty Cobb and Hank Wagner in the head of the average small ball boy.

The cookhouse is also the source of all the steamboat news, and an unestablished rumor is always branded "cookhouse talk," which means that something about to happen is being talked about by steamboat men.

The custom is kept up, even when the boat is in port. On towboats the cookhouse is more of an institution than on the packets, because the men have less to divert them than on a passenger carrying boat. A passenger very seldom gets an invitation back of the cookhouse, and it is not good form to go unless accompanied by one of the crew. The steamboat fraternity is very tenacious about holding on to certain customs and traditions, but the 4 o'clock coffee hour has lasted longer than any of the others.

Steamboat coffee is different, too, from the beverage as it is known on land. Owing to the fact that it is not practical to carry coals on board, steamboat men generally prefer to take it black in great ironstone cups, which hold a little less than a quart. It helps to keep away malaria, they say.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

The Symbol.

He had decided at last to make the great avowal, convinced that a word would suffice to assure his good fortune. He only lacked a beginning, a beautiful, poetic, inspiring beginning. At last he had found it.

Presenting himself to the desired one and suddenly showing her a ring, he said, "My love for you is like this ring; it has no end."

The young lady examined the little golden circlet for awhile with close attention and then returned it to him.

"My love for you," she said, "is like this ring; it has no beginning."—Exchange.
