Trout Anglers Catch Six Million Trout

Trout anglers fishing in Michigan waters landed 5,669,000 trout, lowest season catch of record, in 1950 season, the conservation department's institute for fisheries research estimates.

From compilation of cards returned by fishermen, department fisheries specialists estimate that 6 trout were caught per hour in the 1950 season as compared to 3 in 1948 and 7 in 1949.

In catching these brooks, browns and rainbows, resident and nonresident fishermen spent an average of 16.3 days, 2.8 hours a day on trout waters.

YOU'RE looking at the "stinger" of a B-26—eight 1.50 caliber machine guns that could splat eight kinds of trouble for anyone who tried to attack your country. You're looking, too, at a very important friend of yours. For this young Air Force armorer is doing a job in defense of America and you.

But defense is your job, too. And one of your important defense jobs is to make yourself a member of the "ground crew" by buying U. S. Defense Bonds regularly. For, remember, it's your financial security that helps provide the American economic strength behind the armed force which protects your home.

So today sign up for bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank. You can't make a better buy—for Defense Bonds are as safe as America!

The U. S. Defense Bonds you buy give you personal financial independence

Remember that when you're buying Defense Bonds you're building a personal reserve of cash savings. Money that will some day buy you a house or educate your children, or support you when you retire. Remember, too, that if you don't save regularly, you generally don't save at all. So go to your company's pay office—now—and sign up to buy Defense Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Don't forget that bonds are now a better buy than ever. Because now every Series E Bond you own automatically goes on earning interest (every year) for 20 years from date of purchase instead of 10 as before! This means that the bond you bought for $18.75 can return you not $25—but $33.33! A $37.50 bond pays $58.66. And so on. For your security, and your country's, too, buy Defense Bonds now!

Reminds Builders Of NPA Controls

Home builders and contractors were warned last week against inadvertently violating National Production Authority rules restricting residential housing construction to 2,500 square feet of calculated floor space.

William T. Hunt, Detroit district manager of the U. S. Department of Commerce and NPA, said investigations reveal several instances, especially in some of the more exclusive residential areas, of construction being started on homes which exceed the limit.

"Apparently some building contractors are going ahead on the assumption that the issuance of a building permit by the municipality in which the home is to be constructed is all that is necessary," Hunt declared.

"It is not so. NPA approval is required for construction of all homes which will exceed the 2,500 square-foot limitation," he emphasized.

"The 2,500-square-foot regulation has replaced the former $35,000 limit on residential construction. Apparently some builders are not yet aware of this new ruling, which went into effect July 3," Hunt added.

Heavy fines and imprisonment are listed in the Defense Production Act for any violations of NPA regulations.

The July 3 amendment to residential housing regulations defines "calculated floor area" as meaning "the total floor area measured to the outside surfaces of exterior walls, including finished habitable attics and basement rooms, stairs, halls and closets, but excluding foundations, unfinished and non-habitable portions of basements, garages, unfinished attics, open porches, balconies and terraces."

Hunt urged any builders planning construction of homes exceeding the 2,500-square-foot limit to contact NPA at 1033 Federal Building, Detroit, for approval. "Come in, write or call Woodward 2-9330, Extension 323. If you have any doubts," he added.

"Hand tools, when not in use, should be kept in tool cabinets or in a tool rack on the wall, any Michigan State College student who practices this practice will add efficiency and safety.
