McLeish - Fendt Wedding Vows Spoken In Maryland

Jean McLeish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McLeish of 31869 Myrna Road, Livonia, became the bride of Second Lieutenant Leo F. Fendt, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Fendt of 21935 Gill Road, in a double ring ceremony performed at the Emanuel Lutheran Church in Baltimore, Maryland, by Rev. E. A. Cassens Saturday evening, October 6.

The couple will live at Colonel Heights, Petersburg, Virginia. Lt. Fendt is attending Army Quartermaster School at Petersburg.

Rita Piron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Piron of Orchard Street, who is attending the University of Michigan, spent the week end with her parents. Shirley Lowe of South Carolina, a classmate at the University, came home with her.

EXCHANGE WEDDING VOWS IN DEARBORN OCTOBER 13

Edith Paris became the bride of Thomas A. O'Bara in a double ring ceremony performed in St. Alphonsus Church in Dearborn Saturday, October 13. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Paris of Stuebenville, Ohio, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Bara of Shelbyville, Indiana. Both the bride and groom have been residents of Detroit.

For the ceremony the bride chose a white lace gown with net bodice trimmed with lace. She wore a Juliet cap with fingertip veil.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the American Legion Hall in Dearborn.

The couple left on a wedding trip through the southern states.

CLARENCEVILLE P. T. A. HEARS SAFETY SPEAKER

The second meeting of the Clarenceville P. T. A. filled the high school study hall Tuesday, October 16. Kindergarten mothers, who served refreshments, reported at least 75 in attendance, which is a good start for making this a banner year.

Members in attendance voted unanimously to back the bond issue that will be voted upon at Clarenceville High School next Monday, October 22. The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. and absentee ballots may be secured from the high school. "Make yourself a committee of one and phone your neighbors, even drive them to the polls," urged P.T.A. president Mrs. Leon Dury.

Speaker at the October meeting was Vernon Martin from the A.A.A. and his subject was on safety. After showing a film on methods of educating school children to be careful, he sighted three "E's" for making safety more common: engineering of cars and highways, education, and enforcement of safety laws.

A parents' institute will be held at Ann Arbor November 7 and 8 and all Clarenceville members are entitled to attend the day-long meeting by showing their membership cards. All parents of Clarenceville students are urged also to attend the Open House at the schools that will be held in place of the November P.T.A. meeting.

Also reported at the Tuesday evening meeting was the start of the eye survey, which this year will be taken through the first, third and fifth grades. Adult education is only a word to date, for although there were 32 returns by parents seeking classes, the requirements of 14 for each class was not met. Further returns are still desired.

Many an appealing and luscious dessert can be made from packaged doughnuts. So keep a good supply of them on hand and see how they can be transformed into a tantalizing dessert by the addition of a rich sauce, a bit of whipped cream and fruit, as shown here.

Wide Variety In Line And Design Of Winter Coats Available

A wide variety in line and design awaits the woman who is planning to add a new coat to her winter wardrobe.

According to Marjorie Eastman, extension clothing specialist at Michigan State College, you may choose from a flared, straight-line or a fitted model. You may select a full-length, three-fourths- or fingertip length.

The full, pyramid coat continues to be popular, Miss Eastman points out, but a pared-down version is usually more becoming than the extreme flare.

"If you want a fitted coat, this may be the year to buy one," says Miss Eastman, "for it is the newest and most fashionable silhouette. If you expect to wear it over suits, or a fitted model. You may select a full-length, three-fourths- or fingertip length."

The clothing specialist says that straight outlines also are very good, both in Chesterfields, and sweater-dresser-type coats. Full length coats are in the majority, she explains, with 30-35 and 40-inch models most often mentioned in the shorter versions.

"You will find thick, fleecy fabrics, sturdy plaid cloths, angoras and mohairs, ribbed and nubby wools, tweeds and zibeline fabrics from which to choose. Zibeline is a smooth, hairy, napped fabric," she continues.

And the fabrics used inside are important too, she says.

Units add a gay note to many of the new fall coats.

SAUERKRAUT ADDS DIFFERENT TASTE TO WINTER MEALS

This is sauer kraut making time and Roberta Hersey, food and nutrition specialist at Michigan State College, has a recipe to suggest for making it.

There are few ingredients necessary for making sauerkraut — just cabbage and salt. But, simple as it is to make, it has a tart, different flavor that adds interest to mid-winter meals.

Here is Miss Hersey's recipe. Start with 40 to 50 pounds of cabbage. Remove the outer leaves, wash and drain. Cut in halves or quarters and remove the core. Shred about five pounds of cabbage at a time and, using your hands, mix it thoroughly with three and a half tablespoons of salt. Measure carefully because putting in too much salt will prevent proper fermentation.

Pack the salted cabbage firmly and evenly with a wooden spoon or tamp into a 5-gallon stone jar. Repeat shredding, salting and packing the cabbage until the jar is filled to within 4 to 5 inches of the top.

Press it down firmly without pounding to draw out enough juice to cover the cabbage by the time the jar is filled. Cover the cabbage with two or three layers of thin, white cloth and tuck the edges down inside the jar. Cover with a plate or paraffined board, that fits loosely inside the jar. Weight it down with a paraffined brick or a stone heavy enough so the liquid comes over the plate.

Take out the scum every few days. Wash cloth, plate and weight when you remove the scum.

In cool weather let the kraut ferment about four weeks and in warm weather only about two weeks to prevent spoilage.

Here we are already planning for the mid-winter conference to be held in Lansing December 7, 8 and 9. Schools of instruction are to be set up for service officers, commanders, adjutants, publicity chairmen, historians and membership chairmen. These instruction sessions will be held mornings this year. The annual Civil Welfare Breakfast will be held Sunday morning, December 9, followed by the general session of business.

Mrs. Hattie DeVriendt, rehabilitation chairman of the Legion Auxiliary unit, will attend the Gift Shop at Dearborn Veterans Hospital December 10. That day Mrs. DeVriendt, with many more auxiliary members from different units will wrap Christmas gifts for veterans.

Don't forget the membership luncheon to be held at Holly, Michigan, Saturday, October 27, starting at 10 a.m. Mrs. Treanna Quinn, who is the District Membership Chairman, will have charge of the affair.

If you bought those tickets yet for the card party this afternoon, October 25, at the Legion Home on Grand River, there is still time. The party begins at 1 p.m. Call Farmington 0084 or 1594-W.

If you should "look-in" Dancer's Store window in Farmington, you will see a beautiful doll dressed as a bride. The doll was dressed by Mrs. Mary Markell, first vice president of Auxiliary 346. Mrs. Markell is employed at Dancer's. We think she did a grand job. Don't you?

The sympathy of the American Legion Post and Auxiliary members goes out to Mrs. Florence Lee at this time.

MEDICINE CABINET SHOULD BE CHECKED FOR OLD REMEDIES

"Your family medicine cabinet should be checked often and many of the medicines discarded," says Alice Thayer, Michigan State College home management specialist. She explains that medicines tend to deteriorate with age. Many become stronger and may be harmful to take after a while.

Even if the medicine is still all right, no inexperienced person can tell whether or not a second illness is the same as a former one, even if the symptoms may be the same. A medicine correct for one might be entirely wrong for another. That is why she recommends throwing away all left-over medicine when the sickness is over and getting new if it becomes necessary.

Only a few simple remedies need to be kept on hand. Mrs. Thayer suggests a salve for burns, an antiseptic for cuts, alcohol for cleaning purposes, compresses, bandages and absorbent cotton.

Aluminum foil is handy in the medicine cabinet in case of burns. Spread the salve and wrap the foil around the burn. It serves to cut off the air completely and does not stick as an ordinary bandage does.

She suggests tannic acid paste as one of the best salves for burns. If iodine is used as an antiseptic it should be replaced every three months for it becomes stronger with age and will sear the edges of a wound and prevent rapid healing.

Although pain-killers such as aspirin are usually found in medicine cabinets, their use often is abused. Killing a pain is merely covering up the real source of trouble.

LAUNDRY LABOR SAVING HINTS GIVEN BY EXPERT

A few labor saving suggestions came out of a lot of the strain out of wash day and get you through the weekly effort with more pep, says Mrs. Josephine Sawyer, county home demonstration agent.

She suggests putting a removable bag inside the clothes hamper. Then you can take the clothes from the hamper in one motion to the laundry, bending and reaching for them. Fasten ties of string tape to the top of the removable bag. Put staples or screw eyes at corresponding places around the top of the hamper. Tie the string to the top of the bag to the holders at the top of the hamper — that will hold the bag open.

Another suggestion is to sort clothes on a high table, not on the floor. A hinged sorting shelf or table that folds against the wall when not in use will save space in your laundry or workroom. Then it will be easy to carry them to the washer, too.

Mrs. Josephine Sawyer advises storing your washday supplies near the machine. Keep soap, starches, bleaches and other supplies at a convenient height. Cabinet space or open shelves will be suitable for storing these supplies.

Use a coaster wagon, an old tea cart or a frame built on the wheel base of an old baby carriage to save lugging wet clothes to the lines. It will also raise the clothes so you can reach them easily for hanging. A taut clothesline without easy reach will help take the "stretch" out of laundering. Six feet is a good height for most women, Mrs. Sawyer says.
