GOLDEN GLOVES BOXERS SHOULD START TRAINING

If you want to fight in the CYO or Golden Gloves boxing tournaments this season, now is the time to start training.

That was the advice this week from Frank Connolly, boss of the Detroit's two major mitt sweets. He pointed out that free boxing instruction is now available at 20 excellent centers in Detroit and nearby communities.

"Boys who want to learn to box have an unsurpassed opportunity now," says Connolly. "They can begin drilling this week at a well-equipped club under top-flight coaches. And it won't cost them a penny. If you want to take advantage of this offer, just phone WO. 3-3367 and we'll make arrangements for you to train at a convenient center in your neighborhood."

The Detroit Department of Parks and Recreation sponsors boxing classes at Browster, Birdhurst, Cannon Memorial, CYO Center, Elmwood, Keark, Lasky, Parkside, Redford Boys Club and Rotary Youth Center. The other clubs are Annunciation AC, Avis BC, Belmont BC, Dearborn BC, Dearborn Recreation, Highland Park Recreation, North End BC, Striggs AC, UAW-CIO, and the Van Dyke BC.

Entry blanks for the 13th annual CYO boxing tournament, which opens January 7, are now available at all amateur fight centers or at the CYO office, 305 Michigan Avenue. Deadline for returning entries is Saturday, December 29.

The CYO will determine championships in three classes and in all weight divisions that have at least four bona fide entrants. Class A is for boxers who have advanced at least to the semi-finals in Class B in past tourneys. Class B is for boys with some ring experience but who have never gone to the semi-final in that class. Class C, the most popular bracket in the meet, is for boys who have never had a sanctioned match.

Age limits for Classes A and B is 16 years through 24. Class C fighters must be at lease 16 and not over 19.

There is no charge for entering the tournament, but all fighters must be registered members of the AAU. Boys may register with the AAU for a 25 cent fee at the Detroit office, 3910 Livernois Avenue.

It's A Boy!

A boy Paul Arthur, weighing eight pounds five ounces, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Ruelle of 23010 Violet at 12:43 a.m. Sunday, December 16, in Pontiac General Hospital. Ruelle is an employee in the Farmington Post Office.

War, and the threats of war, and rearmament programs, serve to make it clear how fortunate America is to have an abundantly productive coal industry.

The December meeting of Farmington Cub Scout Pack 45 will be a special Christmas party with all the trimmings.

Mothers and fathers as well as sisters and brothers of the cub scouts are invited to participate in the special activities. The Den Mothers have great hopes that the group singing of favorite Christmas carols will mark Cub Pack 45 as the singing sensation of Farmington. Of course the boys will have their tree, with one of the highlights being the decorating of the tree by the scouts with ornaments they have made themselves.

There will be refreshments for all the scouts and guests. A number of scout awards will be made to the boys during the program. Bear rank will be awarded to Robert Miller, James Orr, Donald Hendryx and Bruce Boltz. Donald Hendryx will get gold and silver arrowpoints as well. Bruce Boltz will be made an assistant denner at the presentation. Wolf rank will be awarded to Dennis Warford, George and Stephen Green and Phillip Sherlock. The Green boys have earned both gold and silver arrowpoint awards.

Bear Cub Gary Brooks is to be awarded two silver arrowpoints and Donald Catlett will get a gold arrowpoint on his Bear rank. Four Wolf Cubs, Harvey Chapman, William Truckner, Wells Mahle and David Bush have earned silver points and David is to receive his denner stripes, too. Other new denners include Lynn Houghton and Terrence Davis.

TRIM EVERGREENS NOW; USE GREENS FOR DECORATIONS

"If you enjoy evergreen trimmings for the holiday season you can kill two birds with one pruning, so to speak," says Joseph T. Cox, extension landscape specialist at Michigan State College.

"You can combine pruning operations on your lawn plantings with your search for holiday greens," he explains. This is an ideal time for pruning ornamental evergreens, since the needled and broad-leaved types are dormant at this time.

Arborvitae or cedar, Pfitzer Juniper, Japanese Spreading Yew, Canadian Hemlock, Silver Red Cedar, Canaert Red Cedar and common Juniper are among plants that may be pruned now. Spruce, pines and firs should not be pruned unless you want to remove branches or correct the shape of the plant.

Cox makes several suggestions for successfully pruning your ornamental evergreens. He advises removing any damaged or broken branches to the nearest normal part of the plant. Cut back branches that are giving the plant a lop-sided appearance.

Tall, pointed evergreens can be headed back to lower their height. This will reduce the snow and ice-holding capacity and will bring the trees down to the right propostions for best landscaping effect.

Among other suggestions, Cox says to prune, making several cuts at different heights. This will be easier and will result in a pruning job that won't be noticed by the casual observer. And don't try to do the whole job in one pruning. Leave some for next year's holiday season.

MSC Names New Civil Engineering Head

Dr. John R. Enell, president of Engineering Services, Inc., of Massachusetts, and a lecturer in sanitary engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, is the new head of the department of civil engineering at Michigan State College.

Dr. Snell will replace C. O. Harris, who simultaneously was named head of a new department of engineering mechanics in the School of Engineering.

Born in Soochow, China, in 1912, Dr. Snell received his B. E. degree in civil and sanitary engineering from Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee, in 1934; his M. S. degree from the University of Illinois, Urbana, in 1936; and his D. S. degree from Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts, in 1939. Before coming to MSC, Dr. Snell was president and owner of an engineering consulting office which worked in the fields of sanitary and civil engineering in the New England area.

Flashers On Wreckers In Motion Illegal

State Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard warns that the use of red flasher signals on wrecker trucks while enroute to or from a call is a violation of the law.

"Use of the red flasher is permissible while a wrecker is at the scene of a call because the vehicle is standing still on the highway and the blinker lights are a warning to other traffic," Leonard said. "However, the red flashers are illegal when the wrecker is going to or from the call, even though it may be hauling a car."

The commissioner stated his warning resulted from a number of complaints over use of red flashers on wreckers.

"Other drivers are confused by these lights when in motion, believing the wrecker is a police car, a fire truck of an ambulance which must be given right-of-way. The latter vehicles, of course, are entitled to use the lights on emergency runs. But becoming accustomed to seeing wreckers with the red flashers, many drivers then wrongly identify an emergency car as a wrecker and fail to take heed accordingly."

HOPE TO POSTPONE 1,000,000th AUTO DEATH PAST DEC.

"Drunk drivers lose their licenses," this was the slogan adopted by the State Safety Commission for its December program of traffic safety education, which is part of the current, nation-wide effort to postpone the country's one millionth traffic death due this month.

"It is ironic," Farmington Police Chief Joseph DeVriendt said, "that December, which is traditionally the happiest time of the year, is also the deadliest. This is particularly true this year since National Safety Council statisticians estimate that the country's one millionth traffic fatality will occur sometime around Christmas."

Unfortunately, at no other time of the year are we less prepared by weather and physical conditions to slow down mounting traffic fatalities than in December. Besides the usual reduced visibility, bad weather and slippery road surfaces characteristic of winter in general, Chief DeVriendt pointed out that the presence of large numbers of drinking drivers on the street constitutes a menace that reaches its height during the Christmas season.

"The drinking driver," Chief DeVriendt said, "isn't a problem unique to the holiday season by any means. But his prevalence during the season's festivities points up the desperate need for widespread public education on the hazards he creates."

The State Safety Commission pointed out that about one in six drivers involved in fatal accidents has been drinking. About one in five of the adult pedestrians killed have been drinking.

"These figures mean that there were about 6,000 fatal accidents last year in which either a driver or a pedestrian had been drinking," Chief DeVriendt said. "And the holiday season had more than its share of these accidents."

The Chief asked all Farmington citizens to keep off the streets and highways this month if they have been drinking, and to watch out for those who have failed to do this.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Barnum with son Michael and daughter Cheryl Lee and Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Shaneour enjoyed a venison dinner Sunday as guests of Dwight Shaneour and family near Hillsdale. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Cooney and children Judy and Doug of Mason and Mrs. Rose Shaneour of Adrian. Enroute home some of the guests called on Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Perkins and family in Adrian.

TWO FIRES CAUSE SEVERAL HUNDRED DOLLARS DAMAGE

Two fires caused an estimated several hundred dollars damage to two farmington area buildings during the week. Both fires started from overheated stoves, Farmington firemen reported.

Most severely damaged was a dwelling at 21303 Renselear Monday noon. Firemen stated the partition surrounding the stove pipe started to burn. They were forced to remove part of the partition in order to extinguish the fire. Damage was estimated by firemen at well over $100.

Firemen were called to a garage on Rockwell Street near Independence at 2 p.m. last Thursday where an overheated stove damaged a ceiling. Firemen quickly brought the fire under control. Chief Leo Hendryx estimated damage to the garage at $75 to $100.

Sunday morning firemen were called to the residence of E. M. Tilley at 33335 Shiawassee where residents feared a chimney fire might cause damage. Firemen checked the chimney.
