'Other' Travels Into Suspense

By KATHY MORAN

The viewer steps into a world of suspense bordering on terror in "The Other."

Based on the even-more-intriguing novel, the movie has been adopted for the screen by its author, former actor Thomas Tryon.

The film takes place in the very setting of a Connecticut farm during the summer of 1935 where identical twins Niles and Holland Perry (Chris and Martin Udavarnok) represent good and evil in a strange series of events.

Producer-director Robert Mulligan has transformed the twins into excellent actors—a skill he also demonstrated in "To Kill a Mockingbird" and "Up the Down Staircase."

Chris is the child prodigy, the son of a wealthy family, the son of a doctor, the son of a lawyer, the son of a judge, the son of a senator, the son of a congressman, the son of a general, the son of an admiral, the son of a president.

Niles seems to the viewer as the innocent loving youngster, son and grandson while his brother is thoroughly evil. Not until the end does the viewer learn the secret.

The movie is loaded with good acting—especially Miss Hagan and the twins' mother (Diana Muldaur) who becomes a paralytic after a fall caused by her son after she began to unravel his grisly secret. Her terror at being locked inside a body that can't communicate what she has discovered grips at the viewer.

As it travels through the medium of time, the movie exemplifies an imagination gone-wild, making it a film you won't want to miss.

Winters Will Talk At Center

Drama critic and radio personality Paul Winters will present his "History of the American Musical Theater from 'No, No, Nanette' to 'No, No, Nanette'" as the first front row center program of the center theater at 8:30 p.m.

Wednesday, Sept. 6, at the Jewish Community Center, 18100 Meyers, Detroit.

Roamin' Club Will Meet

The Roamin' Club, rock and mineral club of Livonia, will meet Wednesday, Sept. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in Room B of the Senior Citizens' Building, Five Mile and Farmington, in Livonia.

The members will make their annual field trip to the Keokuk area with Charles Stanford directing the trip.

Casting Call

The Macomb Theater At-the-Barn will hold auditions for the play "John Brown's Body" from 7 to 10 p.m., Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 5 and 6, in the Barn Theater, Hall Road (M-59) at Garfield (west of the Utica exit off I-94).

Performances are scheduled for three weekends beginning Sept. 29. "John Brown's Body" is an adaptation of Stephen Vincent Benet's poetic novel about the American Civil War, covering the period of conflict from John Brown's raid on Harper's ferry to the end of the war.
